PREDICTS HIGHER PRICES IN KENYON BILL IS PASSED

Swift Official Says It Is Based on Inaccurate Reports.

ATTACKS METHOD USED TO BRAND PACKERS AS TRUST

Says Interference Will Cripple Production and Increase Costs.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Further inflation of foodstuffs prices would result from the passage of the Kenyon bill to regulate and license the packing industry, L. D. H. Weld, manager of the commercial research department of Swift & Co., testified today before the senate agriculture committee, where the bill is under consideration.

"The main objection to the bill," Mr. Weld said, "is in the fact that it was based upon reports of the federal trade committee which are saturated with glaring inaccuracies and misstatements. This would be serious enough, but the matter does not rest there, because the bill, if passed, will further inflate the already high cost of living."

"Elementary facts in the meat business," Mr. Weld said, "proved that the packer profit on meat transactions was about 2 cents on a dollar."

"The Kenyon bill must either interfere with the farmers' side of the meat production, or with the packers' side of the business if designed to affect the high cost of living," he said. "If the farmer is hit, he will cut down production, which will bring higher stock prices. If the packer is hit and his business is crippled, the result will be higher manufacturing costs and these, too, will have to be passed on."

Mr. Weld paid his respects to Commissioner Colver of the trade commission, a previous witness, remarking that "many of his statements here were exaggerated and inaccurate."

Swift & Co. owned no retail stores in England, and Mr. Weld said he had been unable to find that any other American packer did so.

"Mr. Colver came in here and told you gentlemen that the five big packers controlled over 75 per cent of the business in hides," he continued. "They handle less than 50 per cent, and I assure you there is the keenest competition between all of them."

"He told you the packers handled 700 commodities. Let me reveal to you some of the processes by which he reached this figure. He mentioned as separate items butterine, oleomargarine and oleo. All three are the same. He took 23 counts of beef and listed them as 23 items. He gave 155 items as a list of products of cattle dressing. He mentioned 31 items of sausage."

"Mr. Colver made the flat statement that the packers have not put any new capital into the business from outside sources since 1904. Swift & Co. alone has added $85,000,000 cash capital from sales of shares. Mr. Colver persistently ignored the number of packing concerns in business in this country. Some 233 concerns are engaged in interstate business besides the big packers, and more over several hundred concerns do a big local and interstate business."

"If the Kenyon bill is passed the splendid and elaborate service given the country at large by the big packers will be interfered with in a way that will hurt everybody concerned—producers, packers and consumers."

URGES APPROVAL OF PACT TO GO TO FRANCE'S AID

Judiciary Committee Says It Does Not Violate Constitution.

AMERICA SHOULD HELP FRANCE TO RECUPERATE

Would Serve as Shield to This Country Against Germany.

Washington, Aug. 25.—While Germany has been vanquished for the present, "nothing but force is likely to restrain her from seeking world domination at the earliest opportunity," in the opinion of senate judiciary subcommittee appointed to report on the validity of the proposed treaty by which the United States would go to the aid of France in the event of an unprovoked attack by Germany.

In holding that ratification of the special defensive treaty is within the constitutional powers of the American government the subcommittee in its report submitted today to the full committee, said it was for the interest of the United States that France should be allowed to recuperate and recover her old time vigor.

"She will then," said the report, "be a great shield and protection to us against the German menace in the future."

Withdrawal of the United States from the league of nations within two years unless all member nations abolish conscription is proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington. The measure also provides that the American representatives "shall not consent to any decision involving or requiring us to use military or naval forces, unless expressly authorized or directed by congress."

Another provision in the bill is that the American delegates to the League shall be elected by the people for a term of four years. Their salaries would be $25,000 annually and no person under 35 years of age would be eligible to election.

IRISH FRIENDS SEEK $5,000,000 LOAN HERE

New York, Aug. 24.—The Irish Republican Mission has announced the opening of headquarters here to carry on the work of floating the $5,000,000 Irish Republican bond issue to be undertaken by the American commission on Irish independence under the chairmanship of Frank P. Walsh, Harry J. Boland, secretary of the mission and of the Sinn Fein organization in Ireland, will be in charge of the office.

Emmon de Valera, "president of the Irish republic," left here today on a speaking tour through the east, delivering an address in Baltimore tonight. He will speak in Richmond, Va., Aug. 26th.

MALMEDY TAKEN OVER.
Paris, Aug. 25.—Belgian authorities today took official possession of the district of Malmedy, which was ceded to Belgium by Germany under Article 34 of the peace treaty.

PASSENGERS MIRACULOUSLY ESCAPE WHEN TRAIN CRASHES THROUGH THIRTY-FOOT HIGH TRESTLE AT LEEDS, ALABAMA

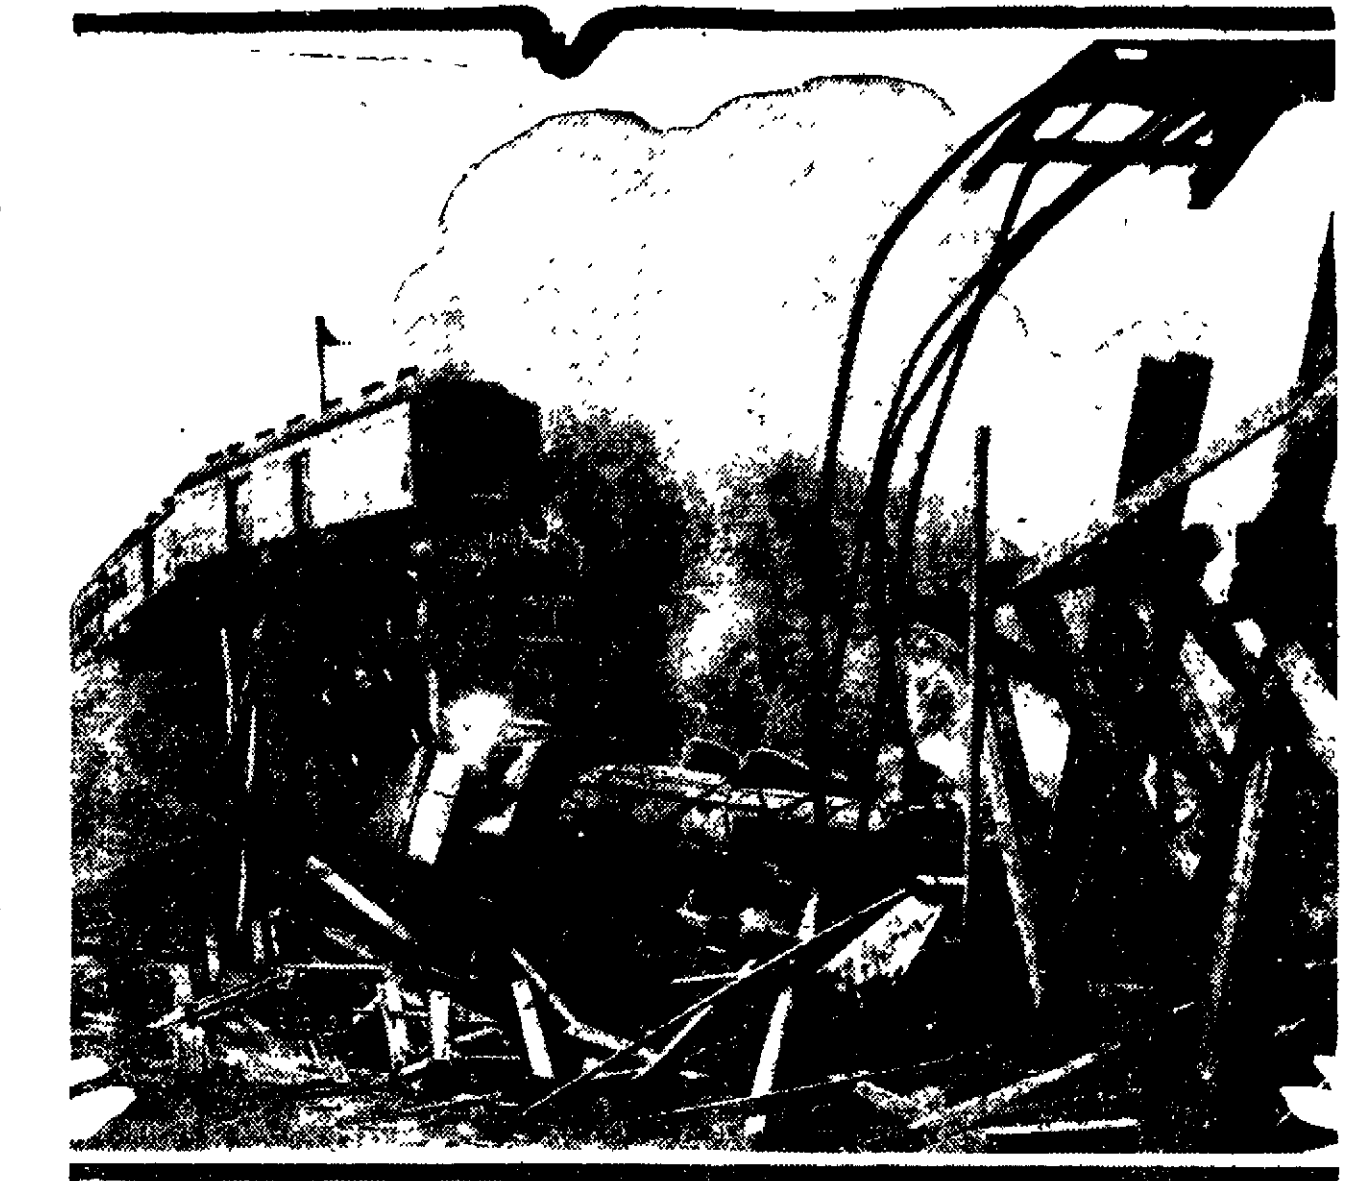

Photo taken just after the wreck shows engine in the ditch and baggage car hanging over the end of the bridge barely balanced.

Miraculous escapes were had by passengers of the fast Seminole Limited train of the Illinois Central, from Jacksonville, Florida, to Chicago, when the engine of the train crashed through a thirty-foot high trestle at Leeds, Ala., eighteen miles from Birmingham, leaving the baggage car poised on the end of the structure. Only the fact that the train had just left the station at Leeds and was proceeding slowly prevented a disaster. As it was, one person was killed and four injured.

OFFERS SHOPMEN 4 CENT INCREASE

President Tells Committee That Greater Increase Would Mean Still Higher Prices On Commodities.

Washington, Aug. 25.—President Wilson today submitted to representatives of the six railroad shop crafts a proposal to pay shopmen about 4 cents an hour increase on a basis of 10 hours pay for eight hours work retroactive May 1.

The president told the committee of 100 representing the shop crafts that any greater increase now would greatly increase the cost of living and therefore was inadvisable.

Certain classes of shopmen, such as car-inspectors and car-repairmen, who have been receiving 63 cents and 58 cents, respectively, would be paid 67 cents an hour under the proposed scale.

CHILD HIT BY AUTO SUFFERS BAD CUTS

Robert Young, five-year-old son of Floyd Young, living at 146 Union street, suffered painful injuries at 11:30 this morning when he was struck by a Ford truck belonging to Edward Schaller of Buckeye Lake. The boy's father stated that the lad was crossing the street near his home.

Dr. Knauss was called and attended him. The child's head was injured there being a deep gash behind his ear and a cut over his shoulder and the body was bruised. The extent of the injuries cannot be determined until the ambulance removed him to the City hospital. Mr. Schaller, who was on the truck, stopped and offered every possible assistance.

RUMANIANS REJECT OFFERS.
Paris, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Rumanian cabinet has refused to accept the decision of the peace conference relative to the division of Banat and Temesvar between Rumania and Serbia, according to the Echo de Paris, which adds that Serbia is reported to be considering the general mobilization of her army.

THREE KILLED IN AUTO.
Youngstown, Aug. 25.—Andrew Beck, 48, and two children, Andrew Jr., and Mary, were killed and Mrs. Begany and two other children were seriously injured when their automobile was struck by a Newcastle interurban car here yesterday.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR MISSING U. S. AVIATORS

San Diego, Aug. 25.—Army aviators from Rockwell Field and troops from Fort Rosecrans, resumed the search for Lieutenants Cecil Connelly and Frederick (Waterhouse), army aviators detailed to Mexican border patrol duty, who have been missing since last Wednesday, with orders to find them dead or alive.

RUSSIANS RELEASED.
Youngstown, Aug. 25.—Seventy six Russians, arrested last Tuesday at an alleged anarchistic meeting, are free to-day as a result of action taken by federal officials late yesterday. Three of the men arrested were taken to Cleveland pending further action, while others had been released previously.

$11,000 VERDICT IS SET ASIDE

Judge Kyle Holds That Verdict Was Not Sustained By The Evidence—New Trial Will Result.

Judge Chas. H. Kyle of Xenia arrived in the city this afternoon and court was called into session at 1:30 o'clock. The first matter taken up by the court was the motion for a new trial in the case of Charles Hartman against the B. & O. Railroad company, the plaintiff having secured a verdict several weeks ago against the company for permanent injuries which he suffered as conductor of a freight train in the sum of $11,000. The court ruled that the verdict was not sustained and set it aside, and a new trial will be the result.

STRUCK BY AUTO; GIRL WALKS AWAY UNHURT

A young woman crossing Hudson avenue in front of the Arcade, Sunday evening, narrowly missed alighting in a mud-quale when she was struck by a machine.

Carrying an umbrella, she did not see the machine, and after she had been struck the driver got out of the car to presumably help her. But the car did not knock her down but threw her back on the bumper. She hurriedly left the scene of the accident without any audible comment.

ARCHDUKE QUILTS HUNGARIAN GOVT.

New Cabinet Is Now Being Formed, Advice To Supreme Council of Paris Asserted.

Paris, Aug. 25.—The resignation of the Hungarian government of Archduke Joseph, previously reported in press dispatches, was announced in messages received by the supreme council today. The messages indicated that the resignation occurred at 8 o'clock, Saturday night, and that the formation of a new cabinet, the dispatch states. Paul Garabet, minister of justice in the Peidl cabinet, will be minister of commerce, while former Premier Jules Peidl will be minister of food. Karl Payer, minister of home affairs in the Peidl government, is designated as minister of labor. The reconstructed ministry, and Count Crany, as minister of foreign affairs.

The other places have not yet been filled.

FEW CANS OF BACON REMAIN TO BE SOLD

There are only 28 cans of bacon left out of the large consignment of bacon shipped to this city from the government supplies depot at Columbus. These men hold 11 1/2 pounds of meat each. There are ten cans of corned beef and while it lasts it can be secured at the various fire departments over the city. Mayor Atterton will have a meat stall on the city market Wednesday, and it is hoped to dispose of all the meat by that time. There are 100 cans of corned beef in one and a half pound cans which the mayor is trying to sell to some other city as there seems to be no demand for it here, the people preferring the one pound cans.

ALLIES MAY POLICE SILESIA.
Paris, Aug. 21.—Germany has declined to invite allied troops to police Silesia but they have that right under the treaty, which stipulates that they are to safeguard the plebiscite there. The Silesian situation is unsatisfactory and the Germans are reported to be bringing about a recrudescence of the recent reign of terror in that province.

AUSTRIAN TREATY READY.
Paris, Aug. 25.—The treaty with Austria will be considered by the supreme council this afternoon and will probably be handed to the Austrian delegates tomorrow.

EGYPTIANS WANT FREEDOM UNDER NATIONS' LEAGUE

Joseph W. Folk Presents Claim to Senate Committee on Treaty.

SAYS ENGLAND SEIZED NILE GOVERNMENT IN 1914

Tells Committee Delegates Sent to Paris Were Virtual Prisoners.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Likening Great Britain's legal position in Egypt to that of a highwayman, Joseph W. Folk, counsel for the Egyptian peace delegation, told the senate foreign relations committee today that the Versailles treaty proposed to validate the "robbery" of Egyptian independence.

Having occupied Egypt after construction of the Suez Canal under the pretext of protecting the Egyptians from rebels, Mr. Folk said, Great Britain in 1914 "seized the Egyptian government and not proposed under the treaty to reduce her to a subject nation."

The treaty, he said, would make Egypt's grievance against Great Britain an international question so that it could not be dealt with by the League of Nations.

"The people of Egypt," the witness declared, "want a League of Nations which will protect their independence and not destroy it. They want no permission to even send a representative to the United States. He declared the over Egypt was 'the same sort of protectorate claimed by Great Britain to a highwayman would claim over your pocketbook.'"

The delegation sent to the Paris conference by the Egyptian representatives assembly, Mr. Folk said, was held in "virtual imprisonment" and was not permitted to even send a representative to the United States. He declared the over Egypt was "the same sort of protectorate claimed by Great Britain to a highwayman would claim over your pocketbook."

MEX. CAVALRY TAKES 8 BANDITS AT DANCE

Marfa, Tex., Aug. 25.—Eight bandits, believed to be part of the Jesus Renteria gang, which kidnaped Aviators Peterson and Davis, have been captured by Mexican federal troops at Coyame, Chihuahua, according to a report to Colonel George T. Langhorne from Mexican Consul Cosme Bengoechea at Presidio.

The bandits were captured in a dance hall after the federal troops had surrounded it, the report said. The troops had marched to Coyame from Chihuahua City.

The prisoners were taken to Chihuahua City by General Manuel Dieguez's cavalry, the report said.

Army headquarters announced that Mexican cavalry had been sent by aviators marching toward Coyame. The reported capture of the bandits is taken to confirm earlier reports that the Mexican federal were co-operating with the American expeditionary forces. It was believed here that the bandits would be executed at Chihuahua City after court martial, as General Dieguez has been conducting a vigorous campaign against banditry in Chihuahua.

CAVALRY TROOPS RETURN; BANDIT TRAIL IS LOST

FIVE BANDITS KILLED AND EIGHT CAPTURED IN WEEK

U. S. Force Suffered No Casualties During Operation in Country.

Marfa, Tex., Aug. 25.—Major James P. Yancey, commander of the American punitive expedition, told the Associated Press over the army field telephone at Ruidosa today that he considered the report authentic that Jesus Renteria, bandit leader, had been shot and killed from an American airplane last Tuesday.

The bandit was slain at a point 15 miles of Candelaria, in Navarrete canyon.

"We got what we believe to be confirmation of the reports of the killing of Jesus Renteria by Lieutenant R. H. Cooper," Major Yancey said. "Mexicans on the trail told us of the report and others near Coyame confirmed it."

First report of the killing of Renteria was brought to the border last night by Lieutenant Harold G. Peterman, one of the American aviators held by the bandits for ransom.

Marfa, Tex., Aug. 25.—Three hundred and seventy-five American cavalry men who last Tuesday entered Mexico in pursuit of the bandits who held Lieutenants Harold G. Peterson and Paul N. Davis for ransom, were back on American soil today, following abandonment of the chase yesterday. The troops today resumed patrol of the border.

Heavy rains yesterday which obliterated all details of the bandits brought a decision to abandon the chase after contact had been made with Carranza troops. The troops were ordered to resume patrol at 11 o'clock to cross the river at Stocky Ford, seven miles from Ruidosa.

The main column was delayed for two hours because of the storm.

The cavalry slept under roofs last night for the first time since last Monday, when the expedition was formed.

During the six days the American punitive expedition was below the border four bandits were killed by the troops and another by armen, while nine bandits are reported to have been captured at Coyame by Carranza soldiers. The captured bandits are said to have been members of the Jesus Renteria band which captured Lieutenants Peterson and Davis.

Lieutenants George K. Rice and U. L. Boquet, American army aviators, who were reported missing below the Rio Grande yesterday after they had left Royce field for Mexico to reconnoiter for the punitive expedition, were located last night in Terlingua, Tex. They had become lost in the rainstorm and made a forced landing. Neither flier was injured. A report brought to the border by Lieutenant Peterson that Jesus Renteria, leader of the bandits, was killed by American armen, could not be confirmed.

FLINT RIDGE MOUND GIVES UP SECRET OF ANCIENT TRIBE OF ABORIGINES

Dr. W. C. Mills of O. S. U. Finds Skelelon of Tribal Chief with Copper Gorget Proving Connection With Ancient Tribes of Ross County Vicinity.

An interesting and important addition to the knowledge of the prehistoric past was made, the past week, to the total of the scientific knowledge concerning the Mound Builders, says the Columbus Sunday Dispatch, when Curator W. C. Mills and his assistant, H. C. Shetone, completed the 1919 season's field work of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical society, and Ohio State University museum, and thereby finished a two years' study of Flint Ridge, that famous scene of prehistoric quarrying in Licking county.

Little by little, with infinite patience and painstaking care, Dr. Mills and his clever assistant have pursued their investigations in the hope of lifting the veil of mystery that has so long hung over the aboriginal people who left to modern man only those interesting earthworks that crown the imposing ridges and dot the winding river valleys in this beautiful Ohio country.

And so it came about that after a careful exploration of the largest and finest of mounds and most extensive of the village sites in the Scioto and Miami valleys, where were the centers of the Mound Builders' population, the scientists reached out to other fields to try to trace a connection between the peoples of here and there, to determine whether there was any relationship between the various cultures even though their works were widely separated, or whether the savages raised the selected earth in haphazard, wilder and more purposeless than the brute creatures of the forest themselves.

SUCH AN OPPORTUNITY MAY NEVER COME AGAIN.

What will the answer be next Saturday night? Win or lose?

Today marks the opening of the last week of the Victory Shaft drive. Licking county holds a very slight lead, with Warren and Morrow close behind. Six other counties are possible winners.

A strenuous campaign was started in Morrow county (Mt. Gilead) by Chairman McMillen this morning. Last year Morrow held the national W. S. S. sales record of $40 per capita. Owing to the difference in population, one stamp in Morrow equals the purchase of four in Licking.

Members of the Licking County War Work Committee are working hard and are determined to leave no stone unturned. These organization men in Newark and every one of the 26 townships will stay on the job until next Friday evening, when they meet to submit sales reports and receive from General Chairman Wright their formal discharge certificates.

If Licking county holds its present proud position of leadership in the state and nation, practically everybody must buy W. S. S. this week. It will take not only the limit buyers, but the buyers of one, two, ten and twenty stamps also. Greater interest must be taken by many of the farmers and the factory and railway men if Licking county is to win. Leading business men, manufacturers and professional men and thousands of farmers are buying liberally, but some have so far manifested little interest. If the community is to win, it must be a community affair in which everybody takes part.

The Victory Shaft is only a granite monument but it stands for a 100 per cent war record. The county that wins it will be proclaimed the leader in the leading state. The winning county will receive nation-wide publicity—advertising that could only be bought at great cost, and yet the Shaft costs nothing—nothing but effort.

Money invested in W. S. S. is available for use when it is needed. Bonds, stocks, real estate may depreciate, but not so with War Savings Stamps—the world's best investment. Eight hundred and thirty-eight dollars invested in 200

W. S. S. this week will be worth $810 next Monday and will be worth $1000 Jan. 1, 1921. The government guarantees it.

Undoubtedly there will be a rush for stamps at the banks and postoffices in the closing days of this week. Therefore it will save one's time by buying tomorrow or Wednesday. Buy from banks or postoffices located within Licking county, otherwise the credit goes elsewhere.

The opportunity for one to help himself, his county and country all at the same time, without any sort of sacrifice, may never come again. If for no other reason, buy W. S. S. this week, in order to spread the good name of Licking county by making your county the nation's leader. Let's go in and win. It can be done.

3 BARN BURN IN THUNDER STORM

Lightning Causes Disastrous Fires North, South and West of Newark Sunday Evening.

Newark escaped any damage from the electrical storm which passed over the city about 8 o'clock Sunday evening, but in the county two barns were destroyed after being struck by lightning.

A heavy loss was suffered by William Weisant on the waterworks road, when his barn and silo were burned to the ground. The family was in bed about 9 o'clock and did not know their barn had been fired. It had a sort of about three-quarters of an hour before discovered. The buildings burned to the ground with 10 tons of hay, between 50 and 100 bushels of wheat, a valuable cow and horse, and between 12 and 15 bushels of potatoes.

The farm is about two miles north of Newark and the sky was brilliantly illuminated. Motorists from over the city viewed the scene but nothing could be done. The wind was in a direction favorable, or it is probable the house would have been destroyed. The loss is estimated at over $200 and only partially insured.

A little earlier, about 8 o'clock, lightning fired the barn of Cull Brown, living four miles south of Granville, on the Lancaster road. The barn burned to the ground and contained hay and oats. The loss is estimated at $1000, and was insured.

A barn on the farm of William Burnett, one and half miles east of Glenford in Perry county, was struck by lightning at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning. It burned to the ground, but some of the contents were removed and saved. All the farm implements were saved, but 12 tons of hay was burned.

FLINT RIDGE

earthwork known as the Hazlett Mound, located on the farm of William Hazlett in the township of Perry county, Ohio, on the western point of Flint Ridge and overlooking the beautiful far-reaching valleys to the north and to the south. There in a field of corn—the romantic grain that is the bequest of those very early civilized man—surrounded by forest and a view of the ancient quarries where highly prized and rare flint was taken for countless years to furnish the implements of war and the chase, the Hazlett Mound yielded up the burial place and crumbling bones of a prehistoric man, among them a copper trinket that proved the very clew the scientists were seeking. That one copper trinket, the intrinsic value of which could not exceed 10 cents, but without price, scientifically, was the finest gorget ever taken from an Ohio mound, and proved so Dr. Mills declared, that the Mound Builders of Flint Ridge and the builders of the splendid mounds of the Hopewell group in Ross county belonged to the same Hopewell culture.

Dr. Mills and Mr. Shetone, undiscovered by a negligently appropriation from the great state of Ohio for the carrying on of their work in this richest archaeological field in America, spent last year's field season in opening up a few of the countless pits in the ancient flint quarries on the ridge. In an attempt to discover exactly how the aborigines, without tools and without explosives or nature, succeeded in quarrying this hardest of rock and then fashioning it into the graceful and beautiful arrowpoints, spearheads and flinting stones that are found scattered over the greater part of the country. Much was added to the store of knowledge in this point, but the great question was to determine who were the people who did the quarrying. Did one tribe own and operate and barter with the flint, or did they indiscriminately come from far and near to obtain their supplies from the quarries, using only sufficient to meet their needs? Did they battle to the death over the prized material, or was the ridge neutral ground, where, under a covenant of "a league of tribes" they met in peace and amity while they labored and gossiped and traded?

The answer to part of the question was buried deep within the mound out there on the western point of the ridge: experience in exploration had taught the scientists that much. They knew that they would find one or more quarries in the heap, one at least 10 feet of a chief with all his decorations in, act and possibly his weapons and implements at his side. Among those decorations, they would find the things that would reveal the culture to which the ancient quarries belonged. Pitching camp on a nearby grassy slope and obtaining board at a pleasant farm house in the neighborhood, Dr. Mills and Mr. Shetone, accompanied by Mr. McLean, a local workman and quarryman, were engaged in removing the earth, shovel after shovel, with the utmost care. The mound was 13 feet high, circular in shape, and in a splendid state of preservation. There was a very heavy growth of brush and weeds over its entire surface, which had to be cleared away, but once the shoveling began no further difficulties were encountered. A preliminary exploration of the mound many years ago, left its traces, but those earlier explorations, being unperformed, missed everything of scientific value or interest that it contained.

Much to the astonishment of Dr. Mills, when within five and a half feet of the line at the bottom of the mound, the workmen uncovered the top of a stone wall constructed of irregular flint blocks well 12 up a perpendicular on the inside of a square 16 feet each way, and sloping outward for from six to eight feet. The stones were of such size and weight as one person could not move, and had been brought from the east crumpling of the flint ledge along the edge of the ridge some distance away. Two opposite corners of the flint enclosure were left open for use as doorways, and just inside each corner was a small opening, showing that posts had been erected possibly to help support a brush roof over the stone-sided prison or dwelling or fort—whatever the structure may have been. In no other Ohio mound has stone construction work ever been found.

as rapidly as it dried and crumbled under the heat of the sun. First examination showed the skeleton was that of an elderly adult, six feet tall, heavily but not massively built, and with the usual characteristics of the skeletons found in the mounds, with the exception that this specimen was somewhat taller than the average. At each side of the skull, where they had rested in the ears of the chief, were two very well preserved copper "spools" or earrings as large around as a silver dollar and double faced after the fashion of a collar button. In the grooves, well produced by the action of moisture in the earth, still showed the wrappings of string made from the fiber of some mark or weed, and traces of a fabric woven of the same material. It is known that the spools were worn in slits in the lobes of the ears, the slits having probably been distended by the insertions of wooden plugs during the process of healing after the slits had been made with flint or bone knife. This process is used by some of the savages of the present day, in the tropics. In this way the openings in the ears were made large enough to admit the spool, and edges of the slit were protected from irritation by the rough coating, by the winding of fiber string.

ADD FLINT RIDGE.
Around the line of the neck were 23 large, handsomely shaped heads made of the solid posts of sea shells and pierced from end to end. The string that held them about the chief's neck, had, of course, long since rotted away. In the crook of the right elbow was another copper ornament, tube shaped, and containing the remains of a cord preserved by the copper sulphate. At the left hand were the lower jaws of a mountain lion, the bottoms planed off, evidently by rubbing on a flat stone, and the bones pierced for suspension as decorations.

One of the many interesting things about the skeleton was a bone growth about the size and shape of the rounded head of a furniture tack, directly in the middle of the forehead. It might have been the result of an accidental injury, or maybe it marked the place where he had been struck by a savage foe in some wild combat for supremacy as leader of the tribe, or for the favor of some comely squaw. Who knows? Another interesting thing was the condition of the teeth which showed greater wear than ordinary. In spite of the fact that the chief could not have reached a great age at the time of his death. One tooth in particular had a large cavity in it, a condition that probably gave the old savage many a sleepless night and miserable day, with the toothache in it going to show that civilization is not wholly responsible for poor teeth, as is often popularly supposed.

But under the skull itself was the grand prize—the copper gorget that may have been held among mound building chiefs as precious as was the Kohinoor diamond among modern rulers of pre-war days. In the form of a divergent letter H with a broad connection, it protruded several inches on both sides from under the flattened top of the skull, and when moved showed traces of having rested on a woven fabric. It was in perfect condition, not badly corroded, the metal was thicker than the blade of a pocket knife, and the whole was finished and polished in a most perfect manner. To the scientists it told the silent story they wanted to hear. The season's work was done. Another reburial in the mound was uncovered, but was not of interest. The workmen began packing the mound, the governor wishing to plow over the spot, the camp was broken, and the field work for 1914 is finished.

As to the prehistoric quarries on Flint Ridge, they have been known to scientists for almost a century. The flint is found in a four to six foot stratum covered thinly by soil, and cropping out along the edges of the ridge for many miles, but the principal quarries were within a comparatively small area since at that point the bed of the material both in quality and color, was to be had. The colors range from jet black to pure white, with varying shades of red and green, yellow and brown, and containing many pockets of beautiful quartz crystals. These are places along the ridge where to this day the old pits are close together, with heaps of earth and stone chips so high along their rims, that it is difficult to pick ones way through the woods. Early settlers found difficulty in cutting the timber, so broken was the surface by the labors of the aborigines. The stratum of flint rests upon one of clay which made much easier the task of breaking out the desired stone. The chips and broken stone covering across upon across some places several feet deep, must have been the accumulations of a very long period of time. Very few perfectly fashioned pieces are found on the ridge, indicating that the material was carried away for finishing elsewhere. When the accumulations of earth and leaf mold were dug out of some of the pits last summer, stone mauls used to break out the flint, were found where they had been dropped by the owners when last they were used. The exact manner in which the savage workmen managed to break their way down through six feet of flint, however has not yet been fully determined.

Dr. Mills had the pleasure both this season and last of entertaining the noted anthropologist, Dr. William H. Holmes, of the American Museum of Natural History, who was delighted to have the two opportunities to participate in the explorations on Flint Ridge. Dr. Wissler is an authority on the American Indian and has pursued his investigations far and wide. He was the far southwest this season, but upon receiving an invitation he came all the way from New Mexico to spend three days in camp and field work with Dr. Mills. Among the Lakota, the Cheyenne, the Arapaho, the Kiowa, the Comanche, the American Museum of Natural History would stop at no expense of labor to invade the Ohio flint field in the interest of science, and it is said has made Dr. Mills a "flying start" in the study of the flint. Dr. Mills refused to discuss the matter when interviewed on the subject.

BUCKEYE PIPE LINE GRANTS $15 INCREASE

To help combat the high cost of living the New York office of the Buckeye Pipe Line company has granted an increase of wages for its employees. Those who are employed by the month will receive an increase of $1.00 per month. The new wages will be effective September 1.

RICKS ON MOVIES.
Paris, July 25.—The Motion Picture industry is expected to be taking alarm at the frequent appearance of "Bible" titles in American moving picture houses. M. A. Aumont, who is in charge of the French film industry, has been seen of the government and appeals to American exhibitors to keep them from themselves, along with their patrons, and their "Bibles." He adds that "the gods are a false idea of the American people."

MAYOR TO NAME NEW HEALTH BODY

Board Will Be Composed of One Doctor, Two Attorneys, a Business Man and a Farmer.

Mayor H. A. Atherton stated today that he would appoint Newark's new board of health under the Hughes act within the next week. It will consist of five members—a physician, two attorneys, a business man, and a farmer. The new board must organize by October 10 in order to name a health commissioner and a public health nurse. The members of the board will receive no compensation for their services, but the commissioner can be paid a maximum salary of $4000 per year, and the nurse $720.

A competitive examination to fill these two positions will probably be held before the middle of next month. The state department of health claims that in order to operate the county health department effectively it will be necessary to assess at the rate of 50 cents per capita, which means that it will cost about $25,000 per year for the county, this city's share to be about $15,000. The new board of health will meet and organize by the election of a chairman pro tem to prepare a budget. The advisory council will then meet, review the budget, and submit the same to County Auditor Fred S. Wilson.

The state will contribute up to $2000 toward the salary of the county health commissioner, who will have complete charge of the work. There will be a county laboratory established, where fee analysis of excretions, etc., will be made, thus eliminating the delays caused by the present necessity of sending the samples to Columbus for analysis. The nurses will be given a physical examination of each school pupil and will give their services and advice whenever needed. Recommendations will be made to the parents of children found to have adenoids, decayed teeth, etc. "Prevention" will be the keynote of the new health law, rather than "cure" after diseases have appeared.

According to law the health commissioner cannot be paid less than $2000, or a nurse $720, and clerk $720; in addition not less than $1500 must be provided for incidents by the county.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED HERE; MAN IS ARRESTED

A Chevrolet car stolen in Columbus Saturday morning in West Gay street and which belonged to Ernest Bidwell and Brubacher Co., dealers in surety bonds, was recovered in this city the same evening, together with the young man who is alleged to have stolen it, Earl K. Drumm, 20.

Police Chief James Sheridan heard that Drumm was trying to dispose of the car at a ridiculously low price and he telephoned the different garages of the city to notify him at once if any one called offering a Chevrolet car for sale. In the evening a call was received from the Hess garage that the fellow was there offering the car for sale and Chief Sheridan and Captain Charles Hager went to the garage and after interviewing Drumm placed him under arrest. Columbus was notified and reported that the car had been taken that morning. Officers came over from that city and returned with the prisoner and car early Sunday morning.

O. E. TRAINMEN

the announcement was made that cars would resume their regular schedule yesterday and the traffic was quite heavy, especially the Buckeye Lake cars, some of the trains having three cars each. The resumption of service was pleasing news to the members of the Loyal Order of Moose of this city, who have a carnival at Moundbuilders Park this week, and also to the officials of the Licking county fair, which opens two weeks from tomorrow.

Assistant Superintendent E. J. LeMaster stated today that the regular schedule was being maintained and that the officials of the company were all pleased that the adjustment of the differences had been made. Five hundred men on the Ohio Electric lines were effected by the strike, 80 of whom reside in this city. Car service was tied up between Zanesville, Newark and Columbus, Springfield, Lima, Toledo, Defiance, Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Dayton, and city lines in Lima, Zanesville and this city.

CAR STOLEN IN PENNA. SOLD TO LICKING PASTOR

Police Chief James Sheridan was instrumental in locating a stolen Chevrolet car taken at New Bethlehem, Pa., on August 2, and which was turned over to the owner of the car by an innocent purchaser, Rev. Mr. Mitchell of Kerkersville.

Chief Sheridan heard of a young man endeavoring to sell a Chevrolet car at a low price, and he finally traced the car to Kerkersville, where it was sold to a young man employed at the Johnstown garage for the sum of $300 and a used Ford. The engine number was secured from the factory at Flint, Mich., and it was learned that the car had been sold at New Bethlehem to James Holden and stolen on the same date that city August 2. Holden arrived in the city Saturday night, but did not continue. Rev. Mr. Mitchell, who was the owner of the car, Rev. Mr. Mitchell brought the car to this city Monday and turned it over to Chief Sheridan, and the official record of the car was secured. Rev. Mr. Mitchell paid $25 and a used car for the Chevrolet, and the young man who sold it to him will have to answer for him for the sale.

YOUNGSTERS GET $250 FOR FRENCH ORPHANS

The city of the kiddies responded on Saturday to the direction of the Women's French missionary society, which has a fund for the purpose of helping French orphans. The fund was organized under the direction of Mrs. Thurman Tower and Mrs. J. H. Tower, who are the daughters of the late John Tower, a well-known citizen of this city. The fund was organized to support a Methodist home for motherless children in Grenville, France.

Walter Reinhower, a driver for the Central Taxi company, escaped serious injury early Sunday morning when the cab he was driving struck a tree in Hudson avenue, near Oak street. Reinhower was asleep at the wheel. The car side-wiped the tree and was badly damaged, the left front fender and wheel being smashed, the frame broke and the steering gear bent. Reinhower was unharmed.

DIDN'T UNDERSTAND LICENSE WAS NEEDED

Charles F. Rhoades, manager of the Newark Ice and Cold Storage company, appeared in Justice Dr. M. Jones' court Monday morning to answer to a charge of operating the plant without a license as required by law. The affidavit was filed by Joseph H. Strangheim, inspector in the Ohio department of agriculture. Rhoades told the court that he was not aware of this provision of the law. Disposition of the case was delayed until the matter is passed upon by higher courts in Columbus where a similar case from tomorrow.

NAVY NEEDS NAVIGATORS - and Church Supplies Them

WHEN Captain Robert Huntington goes aboard his ship he is not piped on deck with nautical ceremony, nor does he glance at the barometer to see whether there will be a blow of wind before nightfall. No, indeed; Captain Huntington crams his newspaper into his pocket, steps into an elevator, murmurs "Thirteenth floor, John," and then fumbles in his pocket for a ring of Yale keys. When he steps out of the elevator, key in hand, Captain Huntington proceeds to his quarters, unlocks the door, picks up the mail and then calls for a stenographer. And if you were to remain with him for an hour you would hear him dictating this letter and that, until at last he decides to step out on the bridge. Then Captain Huntington again has recourse to his keys. He unlocks a door, climbs up a spiral staircase, passes through another door and walks along the bridge to the chart-room. From there he can look out on New York harbor, at the tugs that wander up and down at the dirty freighters swiveling at anchor at the graceful passenger liners passing in; or else he can turn about and gaze at the Singer building and the Woolworth Tower.

The Skyscraper Ship.
It will be seen by this that Captain Huntington's command is no ordinary ship. He does not have to worry about anchorages, for he is always at anchor. He has no fears for storms, for his craft is always still. He does not have to worry his owners for spanning new canyons, for the wind never fills his sails. He has no fears of seasickness or of being run into, for his bridge and his chart-house and his quarter deck are the top floor of a New York skyscraper.

paper, Captain Huntington's command is put down as "Navigation School," but let me tell you that it is a very different thing.

The Wheel is arranged so it is impossible to keep it exactly on Course which gives some practical experience as on board ship

Captain Huntington conducts is an activity of the Episcopal Church, which runs the institute, also. Years ago the school was conducted as a private enterprise, but it failed and passed into the hands of the Y. M. C. A. Again it was unsuccessful and the Seamen's Church Institute took it over and installed it on the top floor of its building, and if you go there you will find young men, whose faces are burned by sun and sea water and whose hands are calloused from bending lines, leaning over calculations in the art of navigation that will one day bring them in command of vessels. Since June 1, 1916, when it came under the control of the Seamen's Church Institute, the Navigation and Marine Engineering School has been making its way, surely and successfully. But it is proposed to make it of even greater service than it has been and through the Nation-Wide Campaign of the Episcopal Church it is hoped to add to its equipment and thereby increase its efficiency; for the Nation-Wide campaign is an effort to enlarge the activities of the church.

Other Ports to Adopt Scheme.
In common with other communities that have been inspired by a great war to enlarge their activities, the Episcopal Church is now making a survey of its resources and needs. The men of the sea are not to be the only beneficiaries of the Nation-Wide Campaign of awakening to the problems of the after-war service. It is hoped that there may be great expansion in all the general missions of the Church. But the greatest emphasis is to be laid on the home field. Church leaders believe that the greatest effectiveness is obtained generally when specific problems which are at hand have been solved. And so from one end of the country to the other there is to be a rebuilding on a more comprehensive plan of church activity than ever. One result will be that the Seamen's Church Institute scheme will be extended to all the important ports of the country. Doubtless Captain Huntington's idea will have its counterpart in some of the new institutes.

The School Record.
To the seaman, who might otherwise never gain the knowledge necessary to pass his examination for a navigator's license, the school comes as a welcome aid. Under the navigation laws a man must have two years' sea experience before he can take his examination, but many men have been at sea for years and even then failed to pass. At the school, however, the necessary training is given and a few weeks added to the two years' sea experience is all that is necessary in most cases for the applicant to qualify for his license.

Instructions in use of Semaphore on roof of School Building overlooking Harbor and Bay of New York

Demonstrating Safety Valve which regulates Steam Pressure

The following figures give an idea of the scope of the school:
Total enrollment up to May 1. 2,477
Total number of men qualified by the school for licensed officers in the Merchant Marine Service and Commissioned Officers in the U. S. Navy 1,354
Total number of men who have taken the course in Navigation, Signaling and Gunnery and who were qualified for the service for non-commissioned ratings 1,123

That is a pretty clear record. No one has failed.
"Shooting the Sun."
When you consider all that is done at the school you can understand why no one should fail. Here in this room is a wheel, ingeniously mounted on a turn-table. Before the wheel is a compass. When the wheel is turned the whole base moves; thus, as at sea, the ship cannot ever be kept on a "dead" course. Elsewhere, in other rooms, lectures in navigation and engineering are given, and problems in seamanship are worked out and apart from "shooting the sun" on the bridge the students twice a week go down the bay in a tender belonging to the Seamen's Church Institute and get instruction in streaming and reading the log, taking cross bearings, taking observations of the sun for longitude and finding deviation by compass, working out ship's position, boat drill, fire drill and every conceivable problem of which they need have knowledge.

While usually the students at the school are men who have taken up the sea for a living, often rich men come to learn that they may qualify to navigate their own yachts.

When the war was at its height a farmer knocked at Captain Huntington's quarters and pushed a strapping youth in ahead of him.
"How do, mister," said the farmer. "I calculate as how you all ud like Hiram here to be captaining one of Uncle Sam's battleships."
From Farm to Navy.
Perhaps it was a piece of chewing that Captain Huntington nearly swallowed, at any rate he coughed. And he said that Hiram might be pretty slick behind the plow, but he'd have to go to sea two years before he could try to steer one of Uncle Sam's big fighting ships.
"See here, mister, you don't do that with me," retorted the farmer, thoroughly aroused. "I calculate I'm an Ammerican citizen and my Hiram's a grain' to hitch up one of these ver supper-dread'noughts or I'll see Congressman Simpkins down to Hog's Corner."
Hans was a problem, but Captain Huntington met it and at last Hiram's father left and Hiram enlisted in the naval reserve. Also he took the course at the school and in time he became an ensign. Someday he may be able to show his father around a ship that he commands.
You will say then that the Episcopal Church is not qualified to teach navigation? With the aid of the Nation-Wide Campaign the present school will be so enlarged as to be a valuable factor in building up the new merchant marine that is to carry the American flag into ports of all the seas.

EXPLORER MAY RETURN BY AIR FROM ARCTICS

Amundsen Takes Two Airplanes On Ship When He Starts For North Pole.

Seattle, Aug. 24.—Bound for the North Pole, Ronald Amundsen, Norwegian discoverer of his ice-locked schooner, the Maud, somewhere north of western Siberia, according to beliefs held by the Seattle Norwegian vice consulate and Vilheljalmer Stefansson, Canadian Arctic explorer.
In planning the trip, the explorer said he expected, after reaching the pole, to return either to Grand Land, west of Greenland or Melville Island, which lies in the Arctic ocean north of Canada. Should he reach Melville Island he probably would journey by sea to Nome, Alaska, or overland to Dawson, Yukon territory.

Two airplanes, it is believed, formed part of the Maud's equipment when she left Norway last fall and sailed through the White Sea bound for the icy north. The final dash to the pole may be made in one of the planes. Amundsen, it is believed, may also fly back to civilization in one of the machines.
Nothing has been heard from Amundsen since Sept. 1, 1918, nearly one year ago. At that time the Maud was reported taking oil for her motors at Dixon Island, a White Sea point. After taking the oil she sailed northeast into the rapidly freezing waters of the Arctic ocean.
From White Sea Amundsen expected to drift west with the ice to the New Siberian Islands, which lie in the Arctic off Siberia. At the New Siberian Islands, it was believed, the drift would carry the boat toward, is not across, the pole. Amundsen intended to use the airplanes if he found the drift would not carry him across the "top of the earth."

Amundsen, in a degree, followed the footsteps of his countryman, Fridtjof Nansen, in 1895-9. Nansen in the Fram started on a drift across the pole but left his boat and tried unsuccessfully to reach the goal on foot. Later the Fram drifted as close to the pole as Nansen got.
The Maud carries a wireless sending apparatus but no receiving instruments. Amundsen said he would not install the receiving apparatus because he did not want to be worried by news from the outside world.
The Norwegian government this summer arranged to establish several food depots on Grant Land, from Cape Columbus to Robinson channel, for the use of Amundsen in case he comes out by his eastern route.
If he comes toward the west and strikes Melville he will find himself on familiar ground for he passed near Melville Island when he discovered the Northwest passage in 1903-06.
Amundsen expects to obtain scientific data at the pole. He will take soundings, observe the ocean drifts, study the ice conditions and bring back full reports.

JAPS ASKED T. R. TO "INVITE" HER TO PEACE TABLE

Colonel's Biographer Tells For First Time of His Efforts.

His Part In Ending Russo-Japanese War Is Related By Friend.

New York, Aug. 24.—Joseph Bucklin Bishop, for 30 years a personal friend of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, and who, five years before the former President's death, was commissioned by him "to write the history of the period which covered his public career," presents in the September issue of Scribner's Magazine, the first of a series of papers which gives for the first time many interesting sidelights on the life of the famous American.
The paper, entitled "Roosevelt—Peacemaker," selected and arranged from the former President's public and private correspondence, amounting to more than 150,000 letters, deals with Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to end the war between Russia and Japan, the letters resulting in the Portsmouth Peace Conference of 1905.
For the first time, apparently, is revealed the fact that Japan made the initial overtures for peace. Four days after the great Japanese naval victory over the Russian fleet in the sea of Japan on May 27, 1905, the Japanese ambassador in London, Baron Komura, telegraphed to the Japanese minister in Washington, to invite Roosevelt to act as a mediator.
"I was amused," wrote the President, "by the way in which they asked me to invite the two belligerents together directly on my own motion and initiative. It reminded me of the request for contributions sent by campaign committees to stockholders wherein they were asked to make a 'voluntary' contribution of ten percent of their salary. It shows a certain naivete on the part of the Japanese."
According to the biographer, every step in the peace conference extending over a period of three months, was taken by Mr. Roosevelt without the aid of any of his most trusted counselors. John Hay, his secretary of state, being critically ill, Secretary Root having resigned from the cabinet many months earlier and Secretary Taft being absent in the Philippines.
One reads the lurid volumes of his correspondence with amazement bordering on incredulity. Bishop writes Mr. Bishop: "It is incredible that one man could do so much and so well. In no other life of his life is the abnormal energy, mental and physical, of Theodore Roosevelt so clearly revealed and from none did he emerge more triumphantly. His activity was tireless and his resourcefulness was inexhaustible. The President's activity was directed, he said, to 'not only steadily and irresistently forcing the two warring nations into a conference, but bringing other nations like England, France and Germany to the support of his efforts. If Russia balked and showed signs of refusal, he persuaded the Kaiser to bring pressure upon the Czar in the interest of peace. If Japan showed similar signs, England was appealed to, to bring pressure upon her. In the end Germany alone, really helped, and Roosevelt gave unstinted praise to the Kaiser ever afterward for what he did then."

In all of this correspondence the Colonel wrote "without restraint or reservation." In a confidential letter to Secretary Hay he referred to the Kaiser as a monomaniac and "a jumpy creature who has had another fit." In another massive he thus characterizes the former Emperor of Russia: "The Czar is a preposterous little creature as the absolute autocrat of 150,000,000 people."
Every day, and often several times a day, he urged the emperors of Russia and Japan to agree upon terms of peace. Once he wrote a friend: "The more I see of the Czar, the Kaiser and the Mikado, the better I am content with democracy, even if I have to include the American newspapers as one of its assets—liability would be a better term."
While the conference was in session, the President had occasional doubts of ultimate success. "I have led the horses to water, he wrote, 'but heaven only knows whether they will drink or start kicking one another beside the trough.'"
When victory crowned his efforts, however, continued Mr. Bishop, he was not elated by it. King Edward of England said of him to the American ambassador in London: "I am simply lost in admiration for the President, nobody else could have done it." Mr. Roosevelt's own verdict was: "I am overpraised. I am credited with being extremely long-headed. As a matter of fact I took the position I finally did of my own volition but because events so shaped themselves that I would have felt as if I was flinching from a plain duty if I had acted otherwise."

PLACE WHERE WAR STARTS SUFFERS LITTLE DAMAGE

Sarajevo, Scene of Assassination Which Plunged World Into Conflict, Damaged But Little.

Sarajevo, Bosnia, July 11.—(By Mail) —Sarajevo, scene of the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand of Austria, suffered less from the war than many other cities of the Balkans. As compared with Belgrade it is a city of luxury and plenty. The cafes have all the food that one cares to buy, the stores are well stocked, and the Jewish and Turkish vendors of souvenirs still do a flourishing business.
The service at hotels and restaurants is exceedingly bad but that is general, not true in south Europe, partly because most of the waiters and other employees during their four years at war acquired sloppiness, habits and careless ways and the spirit of I-don't-care. It is exceedingly difficult, from Athens to Belgrade, to find a waiter who will exert himself to please.
One cannot say, truthfully, whether or no the people of Sarajevo are content with the new Yugo-Slav government at Belgrade. Whatever dissatisfaction may exist, however, is well guarded in concert hills and elsewhere are posters which say "Speak Serbian. The formerly official German language is now superseded in all official publications and Great Britain, United States and Serbia (Cyrillic) Programs and menus are printed on two sides in the two tongues. All official statements are to the effect that there is little dissatisfaction with

THE LAST CHANCE.

The people of this community have the opportunity this week of helping themselves, their country and their country all at the same time without making sacrifices of any kind. Such a chance may never again come. Licking county enters the last week of the Victory Shaft contest, leading the state. The race ends next Saturday, August 30. Invest your money this week in War Savings Stamps thereby saving it and at the same time help to bring distinction to your home county.

POLITICAL DISCUSSION.

The libel suit of Henry Ford against the Chicago Tribune raised many interesting questions as to how far a newspaper can go in criticizing political opponents. The libel law is rather vague, and as both parties claim a victory in this case, little new light is thrown on this problem. The newspaper writer as before will have to be governed by his own sense of fairness and decency.
Public debate is also in danger of running to one of two extremes. Some writers are abusive and say things about public men that are grossly unjust. But this evil tends to cure itself. Newspapers guilty of such utterances hurt themselves more than anyone else, and they disgust the public.
On the other hand, if the libel law were literally or drastically enforced, newspapers would be fearful in engaging in frank discussion. To bring out the truth about public men and office holders, people must be able to speak with some freedom. If they can't say what they think, discussion will be pale and colorless. Sincere conviction will be suppressed, criticism will be muzzled, and the public will fail to get a clear and accurate view of the fitness and character of public men.
So, although freedom of discussion has its evils, and is often abused, it is dangerous to public interest to hold it down too closely.
In most libel suits, there has been the feeling of court and jury. If they felt that facts were not misstated and if malice was not shown, they were tolerant with expressions of opinion, if these seemed sincere. Suppressing the expression of honest conviction is much like muzzling a good watchdog.

Some one asks what has become of the kids that used to read those dime novels about pirates? Well, now they are grown up and reading the newspapers about the pirates. Something about the pirates, something about the pirates, something about the pirates.
Anxious mother asks what is meant by "Soviet government." Well, that is a form of society where everyone gets everything they want and no one has to do any work. Hee-hee!
While solemnly agreeing to keep the peace forever, the Germans are thoroughly investigating whether the allied forces are strong enough to enforce it.
The professors should have all the fun they can now, as they will want something pleasant to think about when they get in jail.
About the only signs of wild life that you get in the country summer resorts about now is the music of the jazz band.

CARNEGIE LIBRARIES.

When Andrew Carnegie's triumphs in the domination of Wall street and the creation of vast new industries are forgotten, he will still be recalled as the man who gave the libraries.
Mr. Carnegie's benefactions in this line used to be made fun of by some people. They thought there was a flavor of self advertisement in all this benevolence. It is so easy for people who themselves have done nothing for the world, to find flaws in those who have done wonderful and amazing things.
The fact that Mr. Carnegie may have liked to see his name connected with his philanthropies did not make his books any less useful to a community. The poor boys that could walk in those free doors and have wide access to the wisdom of the ages, were not any less grateful for the opportunity.
It would be difficult to name any other one man who has accomplished more in this country by gifts of money. Consider the result that must be accomplished in each of the multitude of cities and towns where he gave his book collections. Young people have been stimulated to prepare themselves for better citizenship and service. Practical information regarding community life and progress has been placed at the disposal of all interested in social service. A means of ennobling recreation has been given the people, diverting them from coarser satisfactions. School pupils have been helped to acquire a broader knowledge.
Hundreds of towns with these libraries, which previously had no free center for book distribution, can already show the difference in their higher standards of citizenship. So America will lay its reverent tribute on the grave of this great benefactor, who did so much for the advancement of democratic progress.
The Mexicans are anxious to have Americans come down and invest money there, as the business plants they put up make such fine bonfires.

The fact that the boys tremble at the thought of Saturday nightbath does not prove that it bothers them any to get soaked on a camping trip.

GOVERNORS ON THE JOB.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)
State executives in session at Salt Lake City have made an important move to lower living costs. Frequently when the nation's governors have assembled little of a constructive nature has come from their sessions. Their conferences have tended to provide political reactions rather than to work out programs for the public good. But this year conditions demand an exception to this rule. And the governors have shown their desire to assist in solving the big pro-war problems with which America is faced.
The high cost of necessities have been given serious consideration by the executives and they have proffered their assistance to Attorney General Palmer in his campaign against boarders and profiteers. They proposed that federal officials meet with a committee of governors representing the conference, and map out a program of co-ordination between state and federal authorities to reduce prices and meet economic needs of the times.
Mr. Palmer has accepted this proposal, doubtless with much appreciation. Co-ordination is necessary to success in this important work. Ever since the government has been exercising its right of rate regulation over the country's railroads there have been clashes between its officials and state utility bodies, which have not infrequently been carried into the courts. Any many other problems have developed which could have been solved much more quickly and satisfactorily if there had been co-operation between the national government and the states.
The present economic problems before in the country as a whole. True there are local conditions which demand special treatment by state officials and regulatory boards, but interstate business enters so largely into the production and distribution of everything the public needs that violations of laws and rules of justice to mankind should be made impossible through nationwide campaigns. And it is only through state and federal co-operation that effective legislation can be enacted and enforced.
Uniform laws to prevent hoarding and profiteering should be placed on the statute books of every state and a system of co-operation between federal and state agencies should be worked out. If a workable plan is evolved evidence procured by one set of investigators would be available for legal use by either state or governmental authorities and a great deal of needless duplication of work, time and expense would be saved.

GOVERNMENT OF UNCERTAINTY.

There is a lot in Massachusetts that makes it unadvisable to play golf on Sunday. Now the question arises whether or not a man may play golf by himself without being guilty of breaking the law. The courts and attorneys general are at loggerheads upon this point. Several years ago a lower court judge in that state ruled that a man driving a golf cart on a course on Sunday without competition was not engaged in a game and was not violating the Sunday law. Recently however, another lower judge found a south golf of violating the Sunday law, although the youth was by himself, engaged in the difficult practice of knocking up flies to himself with the aid of a bat and ball.
The two courts leave the attorney general in the lurch. He thinks there is an element of confusion in the law, but probabilities are that a person playing by himself would be held to be within the statute. We refer to the matter, not because of any merit in the subject itself, but to show what a whimsical and misty thing the law is, which is supposed to be the guardian of our lives, liberties and pursuit of happiness. On every side as swayed in from the courts, the all-important fact that this is a government of uncertainty and unintelligibility.

That the word "jackknife" is supposed to be derived from the name of a famous French cutler, Jacques le Coultre? It is said there are still razors made in France with his name stamped on them.

shorter hours and higher wages combined are indefinitely possible. The whole world is upset and having its fling; by and by it will quiet down and return to sober and more normal conditions. Doubtless there will be a new normal and a new level; and while unrest promises to continue for some time into the future, there is no reason for indulging in pessimistic forebodings. As just said, the period of reconstruction is proving more disturbing than the war itself; yet there is one great and encouraging compensation—reconstruction means progress, but war is "hell." The first justifies hope, the second plunges the world into despair.

The high cost of living, the necessity of helping to provide food for the rest of the world, the big wages paid to all who were engaged in manufacturing goods and munitions during the war, the scarcity of unskilled laborers due to so many of that class returning to their home countries in Europe since the war ended and the demands of railroad employees, mechanics and skilled labor of all kinds for higher wages, have naturally lessened the purchasing power of the dollar, and has still more lessened the purchasing power of foreign money. Workmen of all degrees are demanding that railroads and industrial corporations give them not only higher pay but a share of the profits and a voice in management.

DIFFICULTIES OF READJUSTMENT.

(By Henry Clews.)
The reconstruction period through which we are now passing in company with nations is far more disturbing than the war itself. Climbing up to new levels and adapting ourselves to new standards are usually processes of a painful character, and are necessarily accompanied with much inconvenience and friction. This has always been so. The movement is both economic and psychological; economic because the industrial problem is largely one of supply and demand; and psychological for the reason that the public mind after five terrible years of sorrow and suffering is irritable and very unreasonable. Under such conditions it is perfectly natural for human nature to react in all sorts of extremes, and these must be accepted with forbearance. For the economic difficulties, which are mainly those of supply, there is only one cure, and that is, as Lloyd George candidly said, "We shall never improve matters until the increase of production." As for the psychological troubles, they are chiefly due to the abnormal state of the public mind; so we must keep cool and make the best of things until the public awakens from the hallucination that

"THOSE WERE THE DAYS"

WHEN THE GANG CAUGHT HIM "RED-HANDED" IN THE ACT OF DOING THE DISHES FOR MOTHER HE FELT HE WAS HOPELESSLY DISGRACED FOREVER.

This problem is a most difficult one to solve and will require great wisdom for its settlement. Today the United States is the money and supply center of the world and it will be for a long time to come owing to the billions of money we have advanced to other nations. The outcome is difficult to even guess at, as there is no precedent in history with which to base a comparison. The best way for employees to gain an interest in the profits of the railroads with which they are connected, which they are now seeking to obtain, is to adopt the same system that the United States Steel Corporation has for its employees, that is, to make a purchase of the securities of the various properties with which they are identified. Then they become virtual partners. That is the only way I can conceive of that will enable them to achieve their ambition, and it is a perfectly feasible and legitimate way. The quickest and most effective way to put an end to the present strikes is for Congress to apply the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law in relation to the formation of combinations, for when employees strike, they certainly operate in restraint of trade. If the power to strike were taken from labor and it was superseded by boards of arbitration, all questions between capital and labor could be amicably settled without creating the unsettled conditions that now prevail.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe left for a short wedding trip and on their return will be at home in the Mt. Vernon road.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Rank entertained a number of the alumni of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity informally at their home in West Church street Sunday evening.

As a concluding feature the visitors and Newark alumni were invited to the Rank home Sunday evening. A buffet luncheon was served on the pergola and the fraternity colors of pink and blue were used in the flowers which adorned the home.

Saturday at 5 p.m. Dr. L. C. Sparks joined in wedding Mr. George B. Wright and Miss Dorothy Bowen both of this city. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Frank King. They will reside in Newark.

Care of an Umbrella.

Do not open an umbrella to dry it, nor stand it on its ferrule. Either method is destructive to the useful article, the former because the ribs will become warped by being bent by the silk, so that neat, tight rolling will be impossible in a short time, and the second because the water resting about the top will rot the covering. Turn the umbrella, closed, but not rolled, with the handle downward, then when the silk is perfectly dry rub it with a woolen cloth or old silk handkerchief to restore the gloss. Do not keep the case drawn over the umbrella when the latter is not in use, as it will wear the covering at the seams. Properly cared for and if of good quality the silk covering of an umbrella should wear for at least two years, when umbrella is in constant use.

Rise Step by Step.

It's the mastery of every step in the upward way that spells greatness and leads to power. It's common enough to find young fellows dreaming of the day when they will sit in the office chair and direct great enterprises. The dream of greatness is all right, but it must be backed up with considerable experience and knowledge before you can draw checks on it. Dream of big things all you can when you have the pep to push them to realization. The best way is to prove each dream as you have it. The only sure way is to rise by building firmly each step of foundation as you go. The big things they come naturally and you are ready to meet them.

Pugnacious Fish.

In Siam there are small fresh-water fish so pugnacious that when two of them are placed near each other they at once begin to fight. When the fish is quiet its colors are dull, but when excited it is of a metallic brilliancy.

Milady's Boudoir

Care of the Hair.
Caring for the hair requires a wide span of patience and some practical knowledge. Professional assistance is not absolutely necessary, though occasionally one ought to succumb to the trained hands of the hair dresser. Indeed, every woman should take particular delight in caring for her own tresses.

Airing the hair is quite as necessary a treatment as the steam pot. The best known treatment is probably the traditional one hundred strokes afforded by a good brush. While this, of course, is a first class treatment, brushing the hair is hardly sufficient to thoroughly air it.

Using a long toothed comb is the best method for thoroughly tiring the hair and it would seem that most women do not realize the importance of this fact. They do not realize that brushing the hair only affords airing through the length, and that is not all, for it is necessary for the air to reach the scalp also. If the scalp is in a healthy condition it follows that the growth of hair will increase.

For effectively cleaning the hair the use of a fine toothed comb, at least once in twenty-four hours, is recommended in that it cleans the scalp and also allows the air to get to the roots. Another simple way to air the hair and scalp is to part the hair into strands. Gently shake it, thereby fluffing it and stimulating the circulation. An excellent method of improving the growth is the simple exercise of rubbing the scalp.

The fingers are spread apart and rubbed firmly but gently, taking only part of the scalp at a time. In order to loosen the entire scalp the fingers are manipulated on all parts, as even though it moves with very little difficulty.

Dressing the Neck.

It is possible for every woman to take account of her own attraction and to study the degree of becomingness to be found in her neck dressing. Contrary to an open necked bodice. If a woman has a long, thin neck she may wear a high turned over collar of some soft white material with good effect, but if she has a short, full throat she should avoid wearing anything that her neck will destroy the outlines.

The line of the back of the neck from the hair line down to the shoulders should be unbroken. It is one of the beauty points of a well formed woman. The chin should never be pushed out by the wearing of a ribbon band about the throat.

Freedom of the throat is a great charm in a pretty woman. Too often the throat is neglected and allowed to become yellow and lined long before age has left its mark upon it.

In the care of the complexion the throat should have equal care with the face. The clearness of the skin should extend from the forehead to the shoulders. Tulle and fur hats only for long necked women.

There was a time when the wearing of a high necked gown was considered vulgar, outside of the ball room. But today, every sort of gown from a blouse to a tailored suit, may be worn open at the throat with impunity. In art, beauty and grace are combined in serpentine lines. The most beautiful woman is she who is pliant and flexible in attitude, whose curves and motion are harmonious, whose throat, bust and shoulders need little dressing, and in their very nudity are most chastely and practically clothed.

"What does R. S. V. P. mean on an invitation?" asked Edith.

The letters stand for the French "Repondez si vous plait," which means "reply if you please." A positive reply should be sent whether an invitation leaves those letters or not. It was the advice of her mother.

Our Boys and Girls

Nowadays children's meals are as carefully considered as are those of grown people and if the family meal is not adapted to the child's needs special dishes are arranged. Dessert usually means more to children than it does to adults. As prunes are good for children a prune betty makes a healthful and pleasing dessert. This is the way it is made.

Soak and cook a quarter of a pound of prunes until tender. Butter a small baking dish and place in it a layer of prunes, halved, pitted and spread rather loosely. Then more prunes and a top layer of bread buttered side up.

Make a custard of two cups of milk, one-fourth of a cup of sugar, two well beaten egg yolks and a little salt. Pour this over the pudding and bake about an hour or until well cooked. Whip the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and add a little powdered sugar and dot by spoonfuls all over the pudding. This can be eaten hot or cold but is rather better hot. This quantity makes enough for dessert for four children.

In almost every home the routine of the wife and mother are about the same. There are so many things for one pair of hands to do that often the days are not long enough. There is food to be bought and then cooked. The house has to be kept clean and in order. There is mending to be done, washing and ironing and the care of the children.

Very often the mother has little time or the strength to spend other than the actual physical care and requirements for her children. And yet, by a little wise thinking and arrangement, she can start little plays and occupations which will not only give the children pleasure and teach them how to do things, but will result in a quieter, easier and more restful atmosphere in the home.

One of the most helpful factors in the harmonious development of the mother and child is the right attitude of mind. It should be one of contentment and peace. But, too often, mothers, in addition to the household, are obliged to contend with problems of illness. If she can learn, however, to meet such situations with intelligence, courage and self control, she will create a home atmosphere which will be wonderful in its influence to the child, both now and later on.

No young girl is sure of a protected life. You cannot safeguard her so securely that she may do as she pleases and be thrown on the world with no other resources than her hands and her head. If these are utterly untrained in the business of doing something well enough to earn bread and shelter, she will have to go without or depend on charity.

These are words that young girls, as well as their mothers, should read and think over for they are true. A thorough and careful training in some vocation that is worth a salary cannot be easily lost. A protected life is a dangerous life. That is the truth. Don't allow yourself to be satisfied with it. Insist on being taught something of real value, a value as the world sees it.

There is no need of being idle and one of the safest and surest results of vocational training is that it wipes out the idle woman, who is the most futile, unsatisfied and unhappy of all human beings.

Secret of Longevity.

While other folk get tottery in the knees and have asthma and ear-trumpets long before their time, people on the stage seem to have grasped the happy secret of perennial youth. And this secret consists more in right thinking than in wearing fancy vests and high-collared hats. When old Ponce de Leon put on a new pair of knee pants a few centuries ago and started for Palm Beach, Fla., where he had arranged to discover the fountain of youth, he did not understand this great secret of staying young. So he died at last without being able to conceal his real age from anybody. He should have lived now and gone into the movies.—Thrill Magazine.

HOW WEAK WOMEN ARE MADE STRONG

Mrs. Westmoreland Tells in the Following Letter.

Harrison, N. Y.—"When my first child was born I did not know about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had a very hard time. I read in the newspaper about the Vegetable Compound and when my second child came I took it and was well during the whole time, and childbirth was a hundred times easier. Ever since then I have used it for any weakness and would not be without it for the world. I do all my work and am strong and healthy. I am nursing my baby, and I still take the Vegetable Compound as it keeps a woman in good health. You may publish my testimonial for the good of other women, if you choose to do so."—Mrs. C. Westmoreland, Harrison, N. Y.

Women who suffer from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, headaches and nervousness should lose no time in giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Wall Street.

New York, Aug. 23.—Stocks were irregular to heavy at the outset today. Last week's deficit of actual reserves in the clearing house statement, and further industrial disturbances prompting further monetary liquidation, steel, equipment and tobacco fell 1 to 2 points and Industrial Alcohol lost 3. Recession was partly balanced by gains extending from fractions to 1 point in oil and securities. Shippings were variable. Marine preferreds gaining 1 point while American Industrial lost 2 points. Normal change resulted among rails.

Pressure of the same character as that which forced prices lower last week was encountered in the first hour. Selling centered in Motors, Oils and Shipping at extreme reactions of 2 to 6 1/2 points. United States Steel lost 1 3/8 and related shares 1 1/2 to 2. Tobacco fell 2 to 3. Metals 1/2 to 2. Leather and Food shares 1 to 1 1/2. Rails and Motors led the substantially better tendencies manifested toward midday. Unusual interest was evidenced in rates for all money which opened at 6 per cent.

Chicago Grain Review.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Corn started under the weight of an accumulation of overnight selling orders and prices were easier at the start. The opening was 1 1/2¢ to 1 cent lower with September at $1.75 1/2¢ and December at $1.40 1/2¢ to $1.41 1/2¢. Sentiment was generally bearish and the early bulge was followed by a reaction on moderate selling which sent figures fractionally below the opening prices.

Oct. moved with corn with an easy start, quickly followed by a bulge and a later reaction which sagged below the opening point. The tradings were in narrower limits than the majority of grain and very moderate. Opening prices were unchanged to 3/8¢ lower, with September at 7 1/2¢ and December 7 1/4¢ to 7 1/2¢.

Proton trade was dull, prices being 1 1/2¢ to 2¢ lower in line with lower live hog prices.

AMUSEMENTS

AUDITORIUM

Jack Pickford.

Jack Pickford, who is fast becoming one of the leading stars in the photoplay world, is to be seen in the newest production, "A Burglar by Proxy," at the Auditorium. He has an ideal juvenile hero role, a young man with too much money and too many motors, but with a weakness for one particular girl. (Gloria Hope is seen in leading support.) The story opens with Jack, leisurely gliding down country roads in his magnificent racer. Immediately a startling report gives evidence of a blowout. The noise arouses the occupants of a beautiful mansion nearby and they rush to the scene of the accident. Jack, seeing immediately the beauty of the young lady of the house, flies under the auto and gives the appearance of having been seriously injured. In this way, he gains access to higher into the murky way of film stars when the public views her performance in the role of Suzanne Ercoll in her latest Select picture, "Experiment in Marriage," which can be seen at the Alhambra theatre today and tomorrow. She is winsome, charming and beautiful and scores in this picture as one of the screen's cleverest comedienne. The story concerns the adventures of a young widow, who, fearful to again find herself down by a marriage contract and destroy her liberty and promising career as a suffrage leader, marries a handsome young lawyer only on the condition that they live as man and wife during the time elapsing between today night and Monday morning of each week. Many interesting complications develop from their married life. The picture is a corker and well worth seeing.

the home of the girl, where he is attended with more care and consideration. "A Burglar by Proxy" will be shown the first 3 days of this week.

The Unpardonable Sin.
The story of "The Unpardonable Sin" is a thrilling one of love and adventure, with locations that embrace a little town in the Middle West section of the United States, Washington, D. C., one or two of the larger cities in Belgium, some of the most scenic spots in Germany, a couple of important cities in Germany, typical military communities occupied by the German army, and finally New York City.

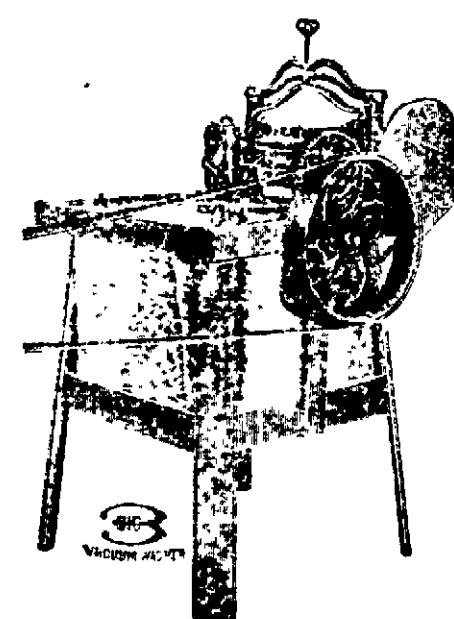

The average theatregoer knows but little difference between the customs, architectural peculiarities, etc., of one country and another—but in every audience of any size, before which a big photoplay is shown, there are sure to be some spectators whose first-hand knowledge of the scenes represented is likely to make them more critical and along these lines than the producer of the picture himself. And the success of a big photoplay depends almost entirely upon the impression upon these comparatively few people who, by the way, are usually the people who talk loudest, either in praise or denunciation. It is of record that in Mr. Garson's production offices in Los Angeles, Mr. Neilan and a good sized force of especially trained men and women thumbed over stacks of topographical atlases and maps and hundreds of current magazines and newspapers until they decided just how each set should be built, down to the cobble stones and pump in a typical Belgian village or to the uniforms of a German bell-hop.

Mr. Neilan says that this long, difficult work of preparation for the picture was the most trying part of his task, but, in looking back at it, gives all the credit to this system, for the fact that when the actual production of "The Unpardonable Sin" was begun it went forward practically without a stop, with the result that by comparison with other big pictures that have been made at least three dollars' worth of screen value was provided for the audience for every dollar actually expended. In this connection, considering the fact that "The Unpardonable Sin" cost its producers more real money than has been spent on any photoplay given the public during the past six months, the public can be assured in advance that the big Garson feature is quite out of the ordinary.

"The Unpardonable Sin" was completed less than a month ago and is now being shown in the leading theatres of the United States in which it is being handled as a legitimate attraction. The local engagement is scheduled for the Auditorium theatre, beginning Thursday and continuing for 7 days.

The production, or marriage broker, naturally takes a prominent part in the new Garson picture, "The Daughter of Mine," which opens at the Alhambra theatre today and tomorrow. C., one or two of the larger cities in Belgium, some of the most scenic spots in Germany, a couple of important cities in Germany, typical military communities occupied by the German army, and finally New York City.

GRAND

This evening marks the first appearance of William Desmond in "Barefooted Gallopers" at the Grand. This picture has a good stiff punch to it, and hundreds of people were delighted with it yesterday. They also applauded vigorously the episode of the new Pathé serial, "The Great Gamble." They laughed heartily at Fatty Arbuckle in "Fatty's Predicament." The program is one of the best that has been offered in some time.

Patrons of the Grand theatre will be pleased with "A Wild Goose Chase," a five-part Triangle production, which comes to this theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday. It features Hazel Daly, who is supported by Matt Moore and Sydney Amesworth, and was directed by Harry Beaumont.

FRISCO WANTS S. A. COMMERCE

Wants Increased Tonnage and Better Shipping Facilities To Hold Coast Trade.

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—Shipping facilities connecting this city with the western ports of Central and South America will have to be increased very materially in the near future, if the business men of the Pacific coast expect to maintain their trade supremacy in the western section of the countries, according to a statement given out today by R. M. Schoch, the Latin American representative of the American Finance and Commerce company. Mr. Schoch says that Great Britain and other European nations are now entering the field with very strong competition.

"The market on the western coast of South America legally belongs to centers doing business through the port of San Francisco," says Mr. Schoch. "If we are to hold our share of it, we must provide immediately the tonnage in ships to properly supply the products that market demands. Several districts have been recently have been established."

A movement to secure more ships for South America through the Federal Shipping Board is advocated by Mr. Schoch.

"A BURGLAR BY PROXY"

Some are born burglars, some acquire burglary, and some have burglary thrust upon them. So here we start the story of Jack Robin, amateur heart and safe breaker; "Spider," the petting loving professional "bug"; Harlan Graves, a Jesse Jimmie with Harvard manners; and Dorothy Mason, the "one girl in the world." It was a dark and stormy night—the second story workers of the burglar upon were on strike, the regular "soup men" and "lookouts" couldn't come on then, and a fat job was waiting and reinforcements were needed, and along came Jack Robin, absolutely unconscious—and the first thing he knew he was looking into the business end of a six shooter held by the man he had wanted to marry in three whole days. And the row on you'll have to guess the rest or see the cleverest comedy in years. ADDED—PATHE NEWS—COMEDY

Metal Oddities.
The importance of the remarkable surface actions that distinguished metals generally was noted in a lecture by Sir William Tilden at the British scientific products exhibition. The property of platinum of causing the combination of oxygen gas with hydrogen and other combustible substances was discovered by Davy one hundred years ago, but other metals show still stranger powers. One of the most valuable is the power possessed by nickel of causing hydrogen to combine with heated oil, converting it into a fat that is solid when cold. A substance acting by its mere presence in this way is termed a catalyst, and catalytic actions are now turned to account on a large scale in making sulphuric and nitric acids and ammonia, in the surface combination of gas, in obtaining fats from whale oil, and in a variety of manufacturing processes. A great field is open in the study of catalytic effects.

Difficult Bartering.
No European has ever been able to meet in their own dwelling places the Kukuluhus, a shy yet ferocious tribe of New Guinea. Other tribes of the country, while they have a great fear of the Kukuluhus, manage to do a bartering trade with them. They bring salt, earthenware, dried fish, etc., and deposit them in a certain indicated place. They then retire for a few hours, being notified to do so by a curious cry from the distance. The mountain dwellers then descend to view the goods offered for exchange. If they want them they put down other goods, such as skins, feathers and other jungle produce, next to those articles wanted by them. Then they retire in turn, and when the way seems clear the coast dwellers approach again. If the latter are satisfied with what is offered in exchange they take the goods put down by the mountain people and go away, if not satisfied they retire with empty hands.

Love.
Love, amid the other graces in the world, is like a cathedral tower, which begins on the earth, and at first is surrounded by the other parts of the structure. But at length, rising above buttressed walls and arch and parapet and pinnacle, it shoots spirally many a foot right into the air—so high that the huge cross on its summit glows like a speck in the morning light and shines like a star in the evening sky, when the rest of the pile is enveloped in darkness. So love, here, is surrounded by the other graces, and divides the honors with them; but they will have felt the wrap of night and of darkness, where it will shine luminous against the sky of eternity.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Avoid Becoming Household Slave.
Being a martyr to duty sounds thrilling and looks well in print, but in everyday life such a role soon loses its charm. Therefore the woman who spends herself in ways that bring her back absolutely no return should right about face, take time for an occasional outing, and learn to keep in touch with what is transpiring in the great world around her. If she hopes to find her family appreciative she will certainly resolve to act on this suggestion. For it invariably happens that the mother who becomes a household slave receives little, if any, thanks at all from those for whom she toils unceasingly.—Exchange.

Philip Sidney.
When we review the life of Sir Philip Sidney, it is certain that one thought will survive all other thoughts about him in our minds. This man, we shall say, was born to show the world what goes to the making of an English gentleman. But he belongs to his age; and the age of Elizabeth differed in many essential qualities from the age of Anne and from the age of Victoria. Sidney was the typical English gentleman of the modern era at the moment of transition from the medieval period. He was the hero of our renaissance.—J. Addington Symonds.

LEAGUE FULFILLS AMERICAN IDEAL

Herbert Hoover Says Democracies Replaced Autocracies at Our Bidding.

FOOD ADMINISTRATION CHIEF.

Urges Ratification on Ground That Peace Treaty Will Collapse Without League of Nations.

Herbert Hoover is so deeply concerned over the opposition to the League of Nations in the United States that he has let himself be interviewed at length on the League situation. In a talk with the New York Times correspondent in Paris, the Food Administration Chief asserts that having caused the League idea to prevail America cannot abandon it. We cannot withdraw, he says, and leave Europe to chaos. "To abandon the League Covenant now means that the treaty itself will collapse."

Mr. Hoover's wide acquaintance with conditions both here and abroad, his reputation as an administrator, a man of great affairs who deals with facts, not theories, make his statement one of the most important contributions to the recent League discussions.

"There are one or two points in connection with the present treaty," said Mr. Hoover, "that need careful consideration by the American public. We need to digest the fact that we have for a century and a half been advocating democracy not only as a remedy for the internal ills of all society, but also as the only real safeguard against war. We have believed and proclaimed, in season and out, that a world in which there was a free expression and enforcement of the will of the majority was the real basis of government, was essential for the advancement of civilization, and that we have proved its enormous human benefits in our country."

American Ideas Have Prevailed.
"We went into the war to destroy autocracy as a menace to our own and all other democracies. If we had not come into the war every inch of European soil today would be under autocratic government. We have imposed our will on the world. Out of this victory has come the destruction of the four great autocracies in Germany, Russia, Turkey and Austria and the little autocracy in Greece. New democracies have sprung into being in Poland, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Czechoslovakia, Greater Serbia, Greece, Siberia, and even Germany and Austria have established democratic governments. Beyond these a host of small republics, such as Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan and others, have sprung up, and again as a result of this great world movement the constitutions of Spain, Rumania, and even England, have made a final ascent to complete franchise and democracy, although they still maintain a symbol of royalty."

"We have been the living spring for this last century and half from which these ideas have sprung, and we have triumphed. The world today, except for a comparatively few reactionary and communistic autocracies, is democratic, and we did it."

"A man who takes a wife and blesses the world with several infants cannot go away and leave them on the claim that there was no legal marriage."

"These infant democracies all have political, social and economic problems involving their neighbors that are fraught with the most intense friction. There are no natural boundaries in Europe. Races are not compact; they blend at every border. They need railway communication and sea outlets through their neighbors' territory."

"Many of these states must for the next few years struggle almost for bare bones to maintain their very existence. Every one of them is going to do its best to protect its own interests, even to the prejudice of its neighbors."

Governments Lack Experience.
"We in America should realize that democracy, as a stable form of government as we know it, is possible only with highly educated populations and a large force of men who are capable of government. Few of the men who compose these governments have had any actual experience at governing and their populations are woefully illiterate.

"They will require a generation of actual national life in peace to develop free education and skill in government."

"Unless these countries have a guiding hand and referee in their quarrels, a court of appeals for their wrongs, this Europe will go back to chaos. If there is such an institution, representing the public opinion of the world, and able to exert its authority, they will grow into stability. We cannot turn back now."

"There is another point which also needs emphasis. World treaties hitherto have always been based on the theory of a balance of power. Stronger races have been set up to dominate the weaker, partly with a view to maintaining stability and to a greater degree with a view to maintaining occupations and positions for the reactionaries of the world."

"The balance of power is born of armies and navies, aristocracies, autocracies, and reactionaries generally, who can find employment and domination in these institutions, and treaties founded on this basis have established stability after each great war for a shorter or longer time, but never more than a generation."

"America came forward with a new idea, and we insisted upon its injection into this peace conference. We claimed that it was possible to set up such a piece of machinery with such authority that the balance of power could be abandoned as a relic of the middle ages. We compelled an entire construction of this treaty and every word and line in it to bend to this idea."

"Outside of the League of Nations the treaty itself has many deficiencies. It represents compromises between many men and between many selfish interests, and these very compromises and deficiencies are multiplied by the many new nations that have entered upon its signature, and the very safety of the treaty itself lies in a court of appeal for the remedy of wrongs in the treaty."

Benefits of the League.
"One thing is certain. There is no body of human beings so wise that a treaty could be made that would not develop injustice and prove to have been wrong in some particulars. As the covenant stands today there is a place at which redress can be found and through which the good-will of the world can be enforced. The very machinery by which the treaty is to be executed, and scores of points yet to be solved, which have been referred to the League of Nations as a method of securing more mature judgment in a less heated atmosphere, justifies the creation of the League."

"To abandon the covenant now means that the treaty itself will collapse."

"It would take the exposure of but a few documents at my hand to prove that I had been the most reluctant of Americans to become involved in this situation in Europe. But having gone in with our eyes open and with a determination to free ourselves and the rest of the world from the dangers that surrounded us, we cannot now pull back from the job. It is no use to hold a great revival and then to away leaving a church for continued services half done."

"We have succeeded in a most extraordinary degree in imposing upon Europe the complete conviction that we are absolutely disinterested. The consequence is that there is scarcely a man, woman or child who can read in Europe that does not look to the United States as the ultimate source from which they must receive assurances and guardianship in the liberties which they have now secured after so many generations of struggle."

"This is not a problem of protecting the big nations, for the few that remain can well look after themselves. What we have done is to set a score of little democracies, and if the American people could visualize this same determination that they did in 1917 that our government proceed."

The improvement was so marked that Nerv-Worth is now a staple in the Newlon medicine chest. Mr. Newlon told Mansfield's Nerv-Worth agent about it.

Taxew Pharmacy.—My wife was under a severe nervous strain for over five years and, as a result, had become extremely nervous. She took a good many different remedies with very little success until recently we both started to take Nerv-Worth. Myself occasionally having dizzy spells, resulting from a sunstroke. We both took one bottle of (Nerv-Worth), and were greatly benefited and can recommend it most highly to anyone. We keep a bottle at all times.

GRID FANS PREDICT BIG REVIVAL IN FOOTBALL IN COMING FALL

Many Ohio Stars Are Back From Service In Army and Navy and Most Schools Will Present Stronger Teams Than for Several Years Past.

With many men back from military and naval service, Ohio college football promises to have an unusual season this fall. Almost all of the Ohio college and university football teams will be stronger than this fall for several years past. In addition to before the war stars returning, many of the schools will have back practically all of their 1918 varsity players.

This situation promises to result in an unusual number of hard fought, closely-contested games on Buckeye gridirons during the 1919 season. It will make the race for the Ohio championship spectacular.

Ohio State university, which holds the western conference football championship in 1916 and 1917, with "Chic" Harley as its backbone, will have an unusually strong team this fall. Harley will be in the lineup, his last year, and several other members of the two championship teams will be back.

HARLEY BACK AT STATE.

Columbus, Aug. 24.—With 16 old varsity men, including "Chic" Harley, all-American halfback in 1916 and 1917, returning to school this fall Ohio State university promises to turn out one of the strongest football teams in years this fall when the whistle blows.

With a team built up around Harley, Ohio State expects to be a strong contender for the western conference championship again this year. Ohio State held the championship in 1916 and 1917 prior to the enlistment of many athletes in the army and navy. Following is Ohio State's 1919 schedule:

- Oct. 4—Ohio Wesleyan at Columbus.
  - Oct. 11—Cincinnati at Columbus.
  - Oct. 18—Kentucky State at Columbus.
  - Oct. 25—Michigan at Ann Arbor.
  - Nov. 1—Open date.
  - Nov. 8—Purdue at Columbus.
  - Nov. 15—Wisconsin at Madison.
  - Nov. 22—Illinois at Columbus.
- Among the old varsity men returning this year are: Stuchcomb, Holcomb, Willaman, Myers, Guerin, Fuller, Cott, Bliss, Flowers, Nemiseck, Matheny, Pixley and Huffman. New men include: Trotter, Haines, Taylor, Chambers, Mason, Kerr, Weaver, Schiller, Spiers, Heathman, Navin.

MANY VETERANS RETURN.

Oberlin, Aug. 24.—A greater number of experienced players will be on hand this fall for Oberlin's football team than in some seasons past. Many of last year's men will return, as will players of years past who entered the military service during the war. Oberlin expects one of the strongest teams it has had in years.

Among former varsity men who are expected to be on deck when the season opens are: Warren E. Steller, end and full, captain-elect of the 1917 team; Paul O. Frey, halfback; Clarence H. Vincent, quarter; F. Frederick Martin, tackle; L. H. Stallings, tackle; Paul M. Angel, guard; E. P. Milikan, end; L. D. McPhee, end and half; F. K. Mavor, sub-quarter and half; F. K. Mavor, sub-half; W. C. Parkhill, sub full; Hiram K. Truesdell, sub-center; H. G. Metcalf, sub-guard. Following is Oberlin's 1919 schedule:

- Sept. 27—Heidelberg at Oberlin.
- Oct. 4—Cornell at Ithaca.
- Oct. 11—Ohio Wesleyan at Oberlin.
- Oct. 18—Miami at Oxford.
- Oct. 25—Mt. Union at Oberlin.

- Nov. 8—Hiram at Oberlin.
- Nov. 15—Case at Cleveland.

WESLEYAN'S BACKFIELD STRONG.

Delaware, Aug. 24.—Ohio Wesleyan's football prospects are unusually bright this year. Only one of last year's letter men was lost through graduation. He is Ralph Thomson. In addition, many football stars who enlisted in the army and navy during the war will be back.

Among the soldier-players to return will be ex-Captain Miller, the Bassinger brothers, Ensign and Colton, Wesleyan should have one of the best backfields in the state with Brubaker, Mahon, Toney and Captain Edery. Following is Wesleyan's 1919 schedule:

- Sept. 27—Otterbein at Delaware.
- Oct. 4—Ohio State at Columbus.
- Oct. 11—Oberlin at Oberlin.

RESERVE HAS NINE VETS.

Cleveland, Aug. 24.—Nine letter men, seven of two years standing, a dozen others who have had varsity experience, and a large number of former high school stars promise to give Western Reserve university a first class football team this fall.

The letter men who will be back are: Captain Tortoise, end, Davis, Brannon and Michalek, tackles, Breckenridge and Erb, guards, Sampliner, center, Searl and Carr, backfield. Following is Western Reserve's 1919 football schedule:

PREY BACK AT CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati, Aug. 24.—With enough material remaining from its 1918 team to form a good team, this fall's prospects for the University of Cincinnati in football are unusually bright. Three state universities are on Cincinnati's schedule: Ohio State, Kentucky State and the University of Tennessee. Following is the schedule:

- Oct. 4—Wilmington at Cincinnati.
- Oct. 11—Ohio State at Cincinnati.
- Oct. 18—Kenyon at Cincinnati.
- Oct. 25—Denison at Springfield.
- Nov. 1—Wittenberg at Springfield.
- Nov. 8—Kentucky at Cincinnati.
- Nov. 15—Tennessee at Knoxville.

Among returning varsity men are: Frey (all-Ohio quarter 1918), Captain Stack, Sarvis, Hopkins, Hemold, Eilers. In addition, there will be Pullen, former University of Kentucky star; Burns, Schierich, Wahl, Sharp, Yarwood, Wenzell and McCartney.

CASE'S SCHEDULE STIFF.

GROVER AIDS OHIO UNIVERSITY.

Athens, Aug. 24.—Practically all of the letter-men on last season's football team at Ohio University will return to school this year, and the prospects for Ohio are better than usual on the football gridiron this fall. "Butch" Grover, Ohio's star athlete and all-Ohio end last year, will be assistant football coach this season. Following is the university's 1919 schedule:

- Oct. 4—Muskingum at Athens.

STATE FAIR OPENS WITH GOOD ATTENDANCE PROSPECTS

Columbus, Aug. 25.—Paths from all points of the state led to Columbus today for the opening of the Ohio State Fair. With good weather prevailing the annual show likely will break all previous attendance records, officials predict. The fair will close Friday night.

Trains, trucks and wagons poured into the fair grounds yesterday conveying live stock, prize fowl and exhibits.

Entries in all departments are the largest in the history, officials say.

The reproduction of Chateau Thierry is the principal feature of the entertainment program. Two hundred soldiers will participate in the "show" which will be staged at 8 o'clock to night. A pageant in which 2,000 school children will take part is also on the program.

Good races will be run daily.

HERRON WINS AMATEUR TITLE IN GOLF TOURNEY

Pittsburgh, Aug. 24.—Playing golf that would have done credit to a veteran expert, S. Davidson Herron, the 23-year old representative of the Oakmont Country club, won the National Amateur Golf championship of the United States on his home course here yesterday, defeating Robert T. Jones, 2nd, of the Atlanta Athletic club, five and four.

Herron's victory was won over the beautiful Oakmont course where he first learned the strokes of the game as a caddy for W. C. Fownes, Jr., a former national champion, also a member of the local club and a semifinalist in the titular tournament just brought to a close.

Jones made a game struggle against Herron, and for the morning 18 holes the first eight of the afternoon he fought every inch of the way. Herron's putting was deadly, he either sank them or rolled them close from any spot on the greens, and it was this more than anything else that brought him victory.

GERMANY NEEDS BIG FOOD SUPPLY

Three and One-half Million Tons of Wheat Only Part of the Food Stuff Needed.

Berlin, July 22. (By Mail).—The German deficit in food, the difference between the amount produced in Germany and Germany's normal needs, amounts to 3,500,000 tons of wheat, one million tons of meat and one million tons of fats, says the Imperial Food Ministry.

Immediate payment for these necessary foodstuffs with inland resources is unthinkable, the Ministry asserts. Only long term credits can help and the acceptance of such credits is only possible if Germany works for only then can the creditors have confidence in paying ability of Germany.

Immediate decisive effect of the removal of the blockade on the German food market is not expected by the Ministry but rather a long slow continuation of improvement which already makes itself felt. It declares that control of export must remain until the average between import and export has been established.

Germany must make up its mind to do without sugar very largely in the future, says the Imperial Commissioner for colonial goods.

Authorities say Germany must sharply restrict her imports of chocolate because of the low value of the mark and must try to rely on her own chocolate, the first production of which is expected soon.

DOMINION PLAN AROUSES IRISH

Report That Lloyd George Is Considering Home Rule and Local Option Stirs Different Factions.

Dublin, July 28. (By Mail).—Appearance in various London papers of the announcement that Premier Lloyd George is considering an offer to Ireland of dominion home rule with county option has created much discussion in political circles in Dublin.

Sir Horace Plunkett's new Dominion league, while willing to arrange special terms for Ulster, on Irish dominion, is very strongly opposed to any arrangement by which any part of Ireland would be altogether outside the new Irish parliament, and Sir Horace believes any such plan would be unworkable.

Ulster Unionists on the other hand are violently opposed to county option or indeed to any option. The furthest they have gone is to agree to the total exclusion from an Irish parliament of the six northeastern counties were extended without the preliminary of a plebiscite.

Many Sinn Feiners declare that, if county option were extended to all Ireland a plebiscite taken on home rule, many of the counties would adhere to the demand for a republic or nothing and vote against it.

TINY YANK CRAFT DEFY BOLSHEVIKI

Two Motor Boats Have a Running Battle With Larger Enemy Steamer In Russ Lake.

Medveja Gora, Russian Lapland, June 25—via London, July 28. (By Mail).—Two tiny American "warcraft" a 30 foot motor-boat from the cruiser Gato and the 24 foot motor-boat from the yacht Yankton, each manned by Yankee jacks and carrying machine guns and light artillery have been playing an important role in keeping the north end of Lake George clear of the Bolshevik raider boats while the allied land forces moved along the shores toward Petrozavodsk.

These boats, which have been renamed Atlanta and Georgia, were brought nearly six hundred miles by rail from Murmansk and were the first allied warcraft launched on Lake Onega. Since then British and Russian craft have been launched.

The Atlanta had a close shave a few weeks ago in a 40 minute engagement with a large Bolshevik steamer which outran the Atlanta's guns. Some of the shells struck within ten yards of the Atlanta which sought safety at the beach maintaining a running fire, but the Bolshevik gave up the chase.

Lake Onega is dotted with bays and inlets wherein a constant game of hide and seek was played during the 24 hours of daylight.

The American craft were under the command of Lieutenant D. C. Woodard. Atlanta's several American vessels of the North Russian Squadron have been at target practice in the North Sea.

GAMBLES GET EVEN BREAK AT NASHPORT

The Gamble baseball team shared honors in a double header at Nashport Sunday afternoon, losing the first game by a score of 8 to 5 and winning the second game 7 to 6. Both games were featured by free hitting on the part of both teams and the close scores kept the interest at high pitch throughout the contests.

In the second game a home run by Jones and two base hits by Slaughter and N. Gilmore of the Gamble team and by Fairrell and Russell of Nashport brought the crowd to its feet.

In the first game, Slaughter, N. Gilmore, G. Gilmore and Fisher of the Gamble team and Fairrell and Westbrook of the Nashport team worked out doubles. In this game Loughman struck out 10 men and Shaw six. The scores:

Metal Oddities.
The importance of the remarkable surface actions that distinguished metals generally was noted in a lecture by Sir William Tilden at the British scientific products exhibition. The property of platinum of causing the combination of oxygen gas with hydrogen and other combustible substances was discovered by Davy one hundred years ago, but other metals show still stranger powers. One of the most valuable is the power possessed by nickel of causing hydrogen to combine with heated oil, converting it into a fat that is solid when cold. A substance acting by its mere presence in this way is termed a catalyst, and catalytic actions are now turned to account on a large scale in making sulphuric and nitric acids and ammonia. In the surface combination of gas, in obtaining fats from whale oil, and in a variety of manufacturing processes. A great field is open in the study of catalytic effects.

Difficult Bartering.
No European has ever been able to meet in their own dwelling places the Kukuhubus, a shy yet ferocious tribe of New Guinea. Other tribes of the country, while they have a great fear of the Kukuhubus, manage to do a bartering trade with them. They bring salt, earthenware, dried fish, etc., and deposit them in a certain indicated place. They then retire for a few hours, being notified to do so by a curious cry from the distance. The mountain dwellers then descend to view the goods offered for exchange. If they want them they put down other goods, such as skins, feathers and other jungle produce, next to those articles wanted by them. Then they retire in turn, and when the way seems clear the coast dwellers approach again. If the latter are satisfied with what is offered in exchange they take the goods put down by the mountain people and go away, if not satisfied they retire with empty hands.

Love.
Love, amid the other graces in the world, is like a cathedral tower, which begins on the earth, and at first is surrounded by the other parts of the structure. But at length, rising above buttressed walls and arch and parapet and pinnacle, it shoots spirally many a foot right into the air—so high that the huge cross on its summit grows like a speck in the morning light and shines like a star in the evening sky, when the rest of the pile is enveloped in darkness. So love, here, is surrounded by the other graces, and divides the honors with them; but they will have felt the wrap of night and of darkness, where it will shine luminous against the sky of eternity.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Avoid Becoming Household Slave.
Being a martyr to duty sounds thrilling and looks well in print, but in everyday life such a role soon loses its charm. Therefore the woman who spends herself in ways that bring her back absolutely no return should right about face, take time for an occasional outing, and learn to keep in touch with what is transpiring in the great world around her. If she hopes to find her family appreciative she will certainly resolve to act on this suggestion, for it invariably happens that the mother who becomes a household slave—serves little, if any, thanks at all from those for whom she toils unceasingly.—Exchange.

Philip Sidney.
When we review the life of Sir Philip Sidney, it is certain that one thought will survive all other thoughts about him in our minds. This man, we shall say, was born to show the world what goes to the making of an English gentleman. But he belongs to his age; and the age of Elizabeth differed in many essential qualities from the age of Anne and from the age of Victoria. Sidney was the typical English gentleman of the modern era at the moment of transition from the medieval period. He was the hero of our renaissance.—J. Addington Symonds.

LEAGUE FULFILLS AMERICAN IDEAL

Herbert Hoover Says Democracies Replaced Autocracies at Our Bidding.

FOOD ADMINISTRATION CHIEF.
Urges Ratification on Ground That Peace Treaty Will Collapse Without League of Nations.

Herbert Hoover is so deeply concerned over the opposition to the League of Nations in the United States that he has let himself be interviewed at length on the League situation. In a talk with the New York Times correspondent in Paris, the Food Administration Chief asserts that having caused the League idea to prevail America cannot abandon it. We cannot withdraw, he says, and leave Europe to chaos. "To abandon the League Covenant now means that the treaty itself will collapse."

Mr. Hoover's wide acquaintance with conditions both here and abroad, his reputation as an administrator, a man of great affairs who deals with facts, not theories, make his statement one of the most important contributions to the recent League discussions.

"There are one or two points in connection with the present treaty," said Mr. Hoover, "that need careful consideration by the American public. We need to digest the fact that we have for a century and a half been advocating democracy not only as a remedy for the internal ills of all society, but also as the only real safeguard against war. We have believed and proclaimed, in season and out, that a world in which there was a free expression and enforcement of the will of the majority was the real basis of government, was essential for the advancement of civilization, and that we have proved its enormous human benefits in our country."

American Ideas Have Prevailed.
"We went into the war to destroy autocracy as a menace to our own and all other democracies. If we had not come into the war every inch of European soil today would be under autocratic government. We have imposed our will on the world. Out of this victory has come the destruction of the four great autocracies in Germany, Russia, Turkey and Austria and the little autocracy in Greece. Now democracies have sprung into being in Poland, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Czechoslovakia, Greater Serbia, Greece, Siberia, and even Germany and Austria have established democratic governments. Beyond these a host of small republics, such as Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan and others, have sprung up, and again as a result of this great world movement the constitutions of Spain, Rumania, and even England, have made a final ascent to complete franchise and democracy, although they still maintain a symbol of royalty."

"We have been the living spring for this last century and half from which these ideas have sprung, and we have triumphed. The world today, except for a comparatively few reactionary and communistic autocracies, is democratic, and we did it."

"A man who takes a wife and blesses the world with several infants cannot go away and leave them on the claim that there was no legal marriage."

"These infant democracies all have political, social and economic problems involving their neighbors that are fraught with the most intense friction. There are no natural boundaries in Europe. Races are not compact; they bleed at every border. They need railway communication and sea outlets through their neighbors' territory."

"Many of these states must for the next few years struggle almost for bare bones to maintain their very existence. Every one of them is going to do its best to protect its own interests, even to the prejudice of its neighbors."

Governments Lack Experience.
"We in America should realize that democracy, as a stable form of government as we know it, is possible only with highly educated populations and a large force of men who are capable of government. Few of the men who compose these governments have had any actual experience at governing and their populations are woefully illiterate.

"They will require a generation of actual national life in peace to develop free education and skill in government."

"Unless these countries have a guiding hand and referee in their quarrels, a court of appeals for their wrongs, this Europe will go back to chaos. If there is such an institution, representing the public opinion of the world, and able to exert its authority, they will grow into stability. We cannot turn back now."

"There is another point which also needs emphasis. World treaties hitherto have always been based on the theory of a balance of power. Stronger races have been set up to dominate the weaker, partly with a view to maintaining stability and to a greater degree with a view to maintaining occupations and positions for the reactionaries of the world."

"The balance of power is born of armies and navies, aristocracies, autocracies, and reactionaries generally, who can find employment and domination in these institutions, and treaties founded on this basis have established stability after each great war for a shorter or longer time, but never more than a generation."

"America came forward with a new idea, and we insisted upon its injection into this peace conference. We claimed that it was possible to set up such a piece of machinery with such authority that the balance of power could be abandoned as a relic of the middle ages. We compelled an entire construction of this treaty and every word and line in it to bend to this idea."

"Outside of the League of Nations the treaty itself has many deficiencies. It represents compromises between many men and between many selfish interests, and these very compromises and deficiencies are multiplied by the many new nations that have entered upon its signature, and the very safety of the treaty itself lies in a court of appeal for the remedy of wrongs in the treaty."

Benefits of the League.
"One thing is certain. There is no body of human beings so wise that a treaty could be made that would not develop injustice and prove to have been wrong in some particulars. As the covenant stands today there is a place at which redress can be found and through which the good-will of the world can be enforced. The very machinery by which the treaty is to be executed, and scores of points yet to be solved, which have been referred to the League of Nations as a method of securing more mature judgment in a less heated atmosphere, justifies the creation of the League."

"To abandon the covenant now means that the treaty itself will collapse."

"It would take the exposure of but a few documents at my hand to prove that I had been the most reluctant of Americans to become involved in this situation in Europe. But having gone in with our eyes open and with a determination to free ourselves and the rest of the world from the dangers that surrounded us, we cannot now pull back from the job. It is no use to hold a great revival and then go away leaving a church for continued services' half done."

"We have succeeded in a most extraordinary degree in imposing upon Europe the complete conviction that we are absolutely disinterested. The consequence is that there is scarcely a man, woman or child who can read in Europe that does not look to the United States as the ultimate source from which they must receive assurances and guardianship in the liberties which they have now secured after so many generations of struggle."

"This is not a problem of protecting the big nations, for the few that remain can well look after themselves. What we have done is to set up a score of little democracies, and if the American people could visualize their handiwork they would insist with the same determination that they did to 1917 that our government proceed."

JOHN NEWLON OF MANSFIELD PAYS A WARM TRIBUTE

Tells His Druggist How Quickly Nerv-Worth Bettered Health of Self and Wife.

The improvement was so marked that Nerv-Worth is now a staple in the Newlon medicine chest. Mr. Newlon told Mansfield's Nerv-Worth agent about it:

Tawse Pharmacy.—My wife was under a severe nervous strain for over five years and, as a result, had become extremely nervous. She took a good many different remedies with very little success until recently we both started to take Nerv-Worth, myself occasionally having dizzy spells, resulting from a sunstroke. We both took one bottle of Nerv-Worth, and were greatly benefited and can recommend it most highly to anyone. We keep a bottle at all times.

Yours truly,

CHAMPION COOPER TELLS OF TRIP TO MACKINAC AND SOO

(By James G. Cooper.)

Mackinac Island, Mich., Aug. 23.—I have been trying to write to you ever since we landed but time flies so fast and something is doing all the time. The W. S. S. postmen's party reached Cleveland Sunday afternoon and went to the Hotel Cleveland, a fine new structure of 1000 rooms. The 50 members of the party, a fine lot of men, left Cleveland on The Western States and had a delightful trip to Detroit, arriving in time for breakfast at the Statler. Monday was spent in sightseeing in Detroit and Belle Isle. We left at 5 o'clock on the Alpena for Mackinac. We had a fine boat trip of 28 hours. The crowd was by this time pretty well acquainted and I think a more congenial bunch never met.

We reached our destination at 9 o'clock Tuesday night, spent Wednesday sightseeing on the island, and, believe me, there is plenty to see. The forests are dense and a most beautiful sight. On Thursday we made a trip to Snow Islands, spending the time between showers in fishing. Caught a nice string of fish that would make a fisherman from Buckeye Lake look sick. On Friday we took the most beautiful trip of all, a 200-mile ride up the St. Mary's river to the Soo to see the locks. It is a wonderful sight to see how the immense freighters are raised and lowered from one lake to the other. We also saw the large power plant that furnishes the power for the locks. We failed to have the pleasure of "shooting the rapids" with the Indians as guides, as the large dam has caused this to be discontinued. Every minute at the Soo was full and running over.

Saturday morning was spent in a shore drive entirely around the island. Then it was hurry, hurry to get lunch and see all we could before we had to leave on the boat for the return trip. Had the pleasure of seeing a boat load of genuine Indians who had come in with a lot of baskets for sale. It has been one grand trip all the time.

Mrs. Cooper joins me in thanking the people of Licking county for affording us this opportunity by buying War Savings stamps. The world's best investment. Licking county as well as the State of Ohio is receiving some excellent advertising by sending this large party to this popular summer resort.

Saw Rev. Mr. Hanks of Newark at Mackinac and he was very much interested in the way that Licking county is pulling for the Victory shaft. This trip has been real to us, now let us make the Victory shaft real to Licking county. I am sure if everyone works as hard as C. H. Spencer, Licking will come out way ahead.

JUST ONE CENT BUT LICKING HOLDS "POLE" IN RACE

The Ohio War Savings committee today announces that Licking county still holds the lead in the Victory shaft drive at the beginning of the final week of the race. The lead, however, is a very slender one. Secretary Kelley wires from Columbus:

"Sales reports for Licking and Warren counties, week ending Thursday, August 21, indicate Licking county in the lead for the Victory shaft, and per capita sale of $4.37, while Warren county is just behind, having a per capita sale of $4.36."

Because of the difference in population 40 cents in Warren county does the work of $1 in Licking so far as W. S. S. sales are concerned.

Morrow county started in a drive for $1000,000 this morning.

The shaft contest ends next Saturday. If Licking is to land in first place every body must buy W. S. S. this week.

20 INTERNED GERMANS ENJOY BRIEF LIBERTY

Columbus, Aug. 25.—The story of how 20 or more German prisoners made their escape from the stockade at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, was revealed this morning by one of the five recaptured in Columbus a few hours after their escape last night.

The escape was made in the midst of a severe electrical storm. Camp Sherman officials said the number had been apprehended and it is believed that not more than two remained at large.

Frank Weigand told Columbus police that 50 prisoners in the stockade worked every night for a week in excavating the tunnel through which they escaped. By the light of smuggled candles, the prisoners dug their way through the cellar of their barracks and burrowed a tunnel under the company street, a distance, they estimated, at nearly 50 feet. The men, tired and under heavy guard, worked so quietly that their work was unnoticed. The dirt excavated from the tunnel was carried in the pockets and distributed over the camp ground. Much of the burrowing, Weigand said, was done with small knives.

The men who came to Columbus on a traction car on Monday, which they estimate they had smuggled past the examining officers at the time of their admission to Camp Sherman.

The real reason for escaping was that the life they were compelled to lead at Camp Sherman "was too hot, too tedious" and that "there was too little diversion."

Six of the number were captured before they made good their escape from camp. Five others were captured at Chillicothe and two others at Chillicothe. Two were believed to be still at large this morning.

The five arrested in Columbus made their way from the stockade to the station. Well equipped with the fact that prohibition is in effect, they all carried bottles of "beer" with them.

The men are from German internment camps and are part of the 128 German prisoners held at Camp Sherman.

WILL GRANT BONUSES

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 23.—The President's railroad minister, Hon. Cooper, told the other day that the wage scale of the railroad men must be altered, but not at present. President Cooper must for the time being content to let the food prices and grant bonuses to the railroad workers.

MOTOR CIRCUS QUILTS TRUCKS RETRACE ROUTE

The American Motorized circus which showed in this city last Monday and which was organized by Frank P. Spellman, is a thing of the past and was forced to close on account of financial troubles. It was to have shown in Coshocton last Tuesday but on account of low sales in the justice courts did not get away until Tuesday afternoon and never reached Coshocton until Thursday. Spellman, who has been promoting amusement enterprises for nearly five years ago and it is said that about $500,000 worth of stock has been spent on the venture. The motor trucks and trailers passed through this city Saturday afternoon and evening on their way back to Springfield and the drivers in a large said they had been taken over by the Kelly-Springfield company which had a claim on them.

FLIVER BODY EXCITES POLICE CURIOSITY

The finding of various parts of a Ford automobile scattered about an alley off Hudson avenue, Saturday, assumed the character of a mystery for a time. Someone had pulled the police and they inspected the place, making many inquiries as to the nature of the adjoining barn and out buildings. When the mystery was solved down it was found that Purley Farrell had wanted to get rid of the body of a dismantled Ford and he put it in the alley.

A crowd of people is a man who has been in the alley, following him and taking him out. Detroit Press.

H. C. OF L. IS NOT CONFINED TO NEWARK SAYS HARRY P. KUTZ

Harry P. Kutz, with the Alabama minstrels, writes to the Advocate from Higgins, Texas, saying:

"We are in the Panhandle or dry belt of Texas. Nothing but wind and sand that you can bank on here. They had no crops for past three seasons but this year they have made up for it by bumper crops of everything, especially wheat and broom corn. Last year they did not raise enough to feed the stock. This is some of the old stamping ground of the Cole shows and we always do a big business as the people seem to look for the Cole name with circus or colored minstrel when it comes to shows. However while business is good and we are getting the general admission for our minstrel show, expenses are so high that it takes big business."

"I often look at the prevailing retail prices as I find them in the Advocate day to day and often think that the profiteers are not all in Ohio or New York state either. I pay for six people and all five with the exception of five white men on the business staff, and they all eat. I assure you. This morning I got away easy with my buying of oats, 2c per pound for ice, 16c per pound for sugar, 12c per pound for milk and thus down the list, and this is what I call a low priced town. Tell McDaniel to come down here and open an annex 10c for coffee per cup, 15c per cut for pie, and 10c Newark sizes of cups or pie crust either. Newark cold storage eggs? No, we have the best of you Newarkites down here on eggs 15 and 16c per dozen, not at cold storage houses or retail stores but right from the country chicken houses themselves. I have about 50 colored men on my show, but what you are thinking of. They do not have any hen house keys. Weather very hot and dry and dust to spare."

Mr. Kutz receives the Advocate every day. He furnishes his office with his literary and the paper is mailed so that he receives a copy in every town he visits.

WAR VETS CALLED TO FORM LEGION POST HERE

C. W. Miller has sent out letters to all returned soldiers, sailors and marines, asking them not to forget the meeting of the veterans of the world's war to be held at the Y. M. C. A. hall, August 28, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The meeting is being called to facilitate the organization of posts of the legion in Licking county.

It has been suggested that posts be organized at Hanover, Johnstown, Parkersburg and Utopia, besides the Newark post.
